20 Killed, Many Injured; 10 Die in Other Mishaps

New York, Feb. 2 (AP) — Six separate investigations were underway today into the disastrous crash of a Miami-bound airliner with 94 persons aboard. The flaming crash in a driving snowstorm claimed 20 lives. Only a handful of the other 74 persons aboard escaped unhurt.

The giant four-engined Northeast Airlines DC-6A plummeted to Rikers Island in the East River last night less than two minutes after taking off from LaGuardia Field, three-quarters of a mile away.

Crew Escapes

Authorities said at least half the survivors were seriously injured. Among the survivors were the six-member crew.

Four men were believed killed as a six-jet air force B-47 bomber crashed flaming into the sea off Gloucester, Mass., Friday night. The body of one of her four-man crew was recovered today by the Coast Guard.

Six fliers, lost their lives today when two American four-engined planes collided in flight and plunged to the ground at St. Lo, France.

The recovered body from the Bay State air mishap was identified as that of First Lieutenant Stanley D. Jenkins, Jr., 28, of Pendleton, Ore.

Saw No Survivors

Fishermen who witnessed the crash picked up four life jackets and pieces of the craft. They said they saw no survivors.

The wreckage of the two planes in collision over France was scattered over a wide area of the Normandy countryside that was a World War 2 battleground. French authorities said that six bodies had been removed from the wreckage.

The U. S. Air Force in Paris said the planes came from the U. S. base at Sculthorpe, England.

Taking part in the probes of the nation's worst commercial air disaster of 1957 were Northeast Airlines, the Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA), the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB), the New York city police and fire departments and the Bronx district attorney's office, in whose territory Rikers Island lies.

Representatives of both the CAA and CAB spent several hours at the crash scene last night and prepared to continue their investigations today. City and Bronx officials indicated they would do likewise.

Meanwhile, George Gardner, Northeast Airline president, was en route from Boston to open an invesigation. He said in a statement:

Cause Is Mystery

"We are all deeply shocked. Our first concern is with the survivors and relatives. We are starting an immediate investigation."

Cause of the crash is a mystery although the pilot and copilot said they believed the huge airliner struck a pole on the island.

New York police early today accepted the offer of FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover to join the mushrooming investigation into

U.S. Moves To Restrict Test Flights

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—The government has moved to restrict aircraft tests over populous areas in the wake of a plane collision over Van Nuys, Calif. Part of the wreckage plunged into a schoolyard.

The collision two days ago—involving a DC7 airliner and a jet fighter—claimed seven lives and injured 78 persons. Most of the injured were school children. Both planes were undergoing tests.

Demands Grow

These developments came yesterday amid mounting demands for federal action:

Administrator James T. Pyle of the Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA) ordered his regional officials to work toward immediate establishment of "voluntary local flying areas" for test flights pending more formal action.

President Eisenhower instructed Edward P. Curtis, his assistant on aviation planning, to investigate means of preventing any any more such accidents.

The House Commerce Committee ordered an investigation of

Saud to Extend Stay in Capital

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—King Saud of Saudi Arabia has decided to extend his stay in Washington, evidently for further talks with top U. S. officials on Middle Eastern problems.

There was immediate speculation that some difficulties might have arisen in Saud's conferences with President Eisenhower.

But American officials said they were certain this was not true; that the talks had been going extremely well. A spokesman for the king said the meetings have been held "in the atmosphere of warm cordiality."

Praises U. S. Rule

Such an atmosphere was present last night at a dinner Saud gave for Eisenhower at a downtown hotel.

Saud praised the United States for supporting the principles of the United Nations in sponsoring "peace in the world and self-determination" for peoples under colonial rule.

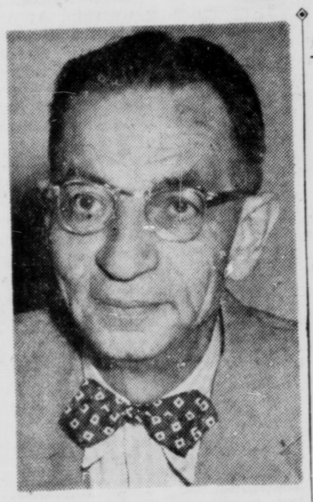

Responding, Eisenhower said he felt their talks will "bing our countries into closer understanding with each other and, therefore, into closer friendship."

Earlier, the State Department announced that Saud had canceled plans to spent next week at the swank Greenbrier Hotel in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va.

GOVERNOR HARRIMAN
To Push Link Roads

MAYOR STANG
Sees Progress March

A. H. WICKS
Introduced Span Bill

Area Expansion Seen On 2 Sides of River

Harriman, Stang, Other Officials Are On Hand as Tape Cut for Traffic Flow

An historic snip of a scissors made possible a broad link of vehicular communication and new areas of progress when the long-awaited Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge was informally opened to traffic shortly before noon today to transcend a barrier of majestic river.

The snow-covered span, its back arched gracefully over the Hudson, finally became a reality—the culmination of dreams, plain sweat, and 13 years of planning.

Two communities—Kingston and Rhinebeck—separated for centuries by a meager three miles—were at last joined in a common bond of steel and concrete, opening a new avenue for transportation between eastern New York and the New England states.

Gov. Averell Harriman, who motored from his home at Arden for today's ceremony, said his administration intended to "make it easier, quicker and safer for motorists" to reach Catskill resort areas.

Harriman, in a prepared speech, said he had asked the public works department to pay "particular attention" to the development of feeder lines to the Thruway and other major state highways. He said access routes to the Thruway had been neglected.

"I know what it is to fight your way from the Thruway into the Catskills on a summer weekend," the Governor declared. "We must make it easier, quicker and safer for motorists to reach the splendid recreational centers in the mountains."

Wilson Has Bill

The Governor said public works was working with the bridge authority to provide better connections between Route 209 and the new bridge.

Assemblyman Wilson reported introduction of a bill at Albany on Thursday which will open the way for construction of a bypass route connecting routes 209 and 9W and the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge.

The route is one discussed here recently by local officials and state highway engineers as one of the major steps in relieving the city of heavy traffic and congestion.

Nancy Heppner Cuts Ribbon

The opening was marked by a ribbon-cutting ceremony in which Gov. Harriman handed a scissors to Nancy Heppner, 13-year-old daughter of Ernest Heppner, local authority member, and Mrs. Heppner. Her 13 years of age had a significant association with the opening since plans for the span were begun exactly that many years ago.

Other members of the authority who flanked the governor as the ribbon was cut near the temporary toll booth on the west approach were John S. Stillman of Newburgh, Edward J. Burns, administrative officer, Dr. John L. Edwards of Hudson, and Neal Brandow of Coxsackie. Robert Hoe of Poughkeepsie, president of the authority, is in Florida and was unable to attend.

The official motorcade included Senator Ernest I. Hatfield of Dutchess county, Assemblyman Watson Pomeroy of Dutchess county and Kenneth L. Wilson of Woodstock, representing former Senator Arthur H. Wicks, who with Senator Hatfield, introduced the legislation to make the bridge possible.

Wicks Sends Best Wishes

Senator Wicks, now vacationing in Florida, was unable to attend but sent his best wishes.

The bridge stands among his many accomplishments of legislative oresight during the 30 years he represented the 34th Senatorial District. He retired as a member of the state legislature Dec. 31, 1956.

It was in March, 1947, that Governor Thomas E. Dewey signed a bill introduced by Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Hatfield which approved the bridge job. Mr. Hatfield later became a member of Senate.

The governor said also designs were being developed for reconstruction of Route 28 from the Ashokan reservoir up to Margaretville, Delaware county.

Mayor Stang and other area officials met Gov. Harriman and his official party at the Thruway interchange.

Police Escort Dignitaries

A state police escort, and a two-car local police escort, under the direction of Lt. Robert F. Murphy, head of the police department's traffic division, led the way to the opening ceremony.

Four state police patrol cars and eight troopers were on duty at the bridge—four men on the west side, and four at the eastern entrance.

A reception for Gov. Harriman and officials was held at the Governor Clintonl Hotel immediately after the opening ceremony and a tour across the span and back by official parties.

Mayor Stang and police units escorted Gov. Harriman back to the thruway interchange after the reception in the hotel.

Sees Progress Ahead

Mayor Stang described the new bridge "truly a gateway from New England to the west," and predicted its economic effect would be felt over a broad area "as another decisive step forward in Kingston's march of progress."

"Today marks the realization of a dream of many years," Mayor Stang said.

"It's a far cry from the day the bill was introduced to the informal opening. This bridge links two great sections of our state. It is truly a gateway from New England to the west.

"The economic effect will be felt in many ways and over a large area, and marks another decisive step forward in Kingston's march of progress.

"My congratulations to Senator Wicks, who introduced the bill; Dr. Steinman, who designed the bridge; the contractors and men who built it and to the many, many people who helped in one way or another maintain New York state's leadership in the field of highway and bridge construction.

Also attending today's ceremony were Supervisor Percy Bush, of the town of Ulster; Mayor Walter Wheeler of Rhinebeck, and Mayor Carl Stockenberg of Red Hook; Supervisors Silas Frazer of Rhinebeck and Oakleigh Cookingham of Red Hook; Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, and Chester Haen, of Rhinebeck, co-chairman of the celebration committee for the dedication and grand opening which will be held in May.

The official motorcade also included Walter Joyce and Milton Elkow, consulting engineers of Dr. D. B. Steinman's office, who designed the bridge.

Department Represented

Representing the New York State Department of Public Works were Kurt Rauer, district engineer; Joseph Murphy and George Cox, assistant engineers; Edward Krueger and Fred Tator, who represented the public works department in the building of the approaches; John Mera, assistant engineer of the public works department in Ulster county, and James S. Bixby, former district engineer.

Former commissioners of the

Wicks Lauded for Span

Monument to Senator, Boon to Area

The opening of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge today is another milestone in the phenomenal 20th century history of highway transportation in New York state, L. Judson Morhouse, state Republican chairman, said today in a telegram to Mayor Frederick H. Stang, praising Senator Arthur H. Wicks for his legislative efforts to make the bridge a reality.

The rest of the telegram follows:

"This magnificent structure—newest and most gracefully beautiful of the spans bridging the majestic Hudson—will have an immeasurably favorable impact on the economy of the thriving Mid-Hudson country it serves when it eventually is linked to the New York State Thruway—and I hope that day is not far away. It will place Kingston at one of the key crossroads on the high road to an even more prosperous future.

"The span stands also as a tribute to the courage and determination of Arthur Wicks who, probably more than anyone else, is responsible for this bridging of the Hudson.

"The movement of traffic over the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge today climaxes a great community dream which Senator Wicks made come true. It is symbolic of his intense devotion to Kingston and the Ulster area throughout his 30 years of service in the State Senate. Even when he served as his party's leader in the Senate, he never failed to remember that first and foremost he was the Senator from Kingston.

"The Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, the wonderful Belleayre Ski Center in the Catskills, the Thruway, the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project—all of them are examples of Republican vision and action of which the people are to be proud."

$50 Million Expansion Central Hudson Plan

The Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation will spend a record $50,000,000 during the three-year period through 1959 to meet increasing demands for electricity and natural gas.

This has been announced by Ernest R. Acker, company president, who said the second largest item in the utility firm's 1957 budget is $2,000,000 for laying a 50-mile natural gas transmission line from this city to the Albany area.

In 1957 alone the utility company's construction budget calls for the expenditure of more than $15,300,000. This amount represents the largest construction budget in the company's history and is about double the amount spent in 1956.

Danskammer Leads

The largest single project included in the company's three-year construction estimates is a third generating unit at the Danskammer Point Steam Station. The new unit will practically double the present generating capability of the station and will cost approximately $23,400,000.

Of this amount, the company expects to spend about $3,150,000 in 1957. Construction will begin this spring and the unit is scheduled to be placed in operation in the fall of 1959.

"We are entering a new phase in our electric production expansion program with the construction of the new unit at Danskammer Point," Mr. Acker said, "while, at the same time, we are continuing to extend and reinforce our electric and gas transmission and distribution systems. The high rate of new service connections and the increased usages of residential, commercial and industrial customers have created record demands on both the electric and gas systems," he stated.

The second largest item in the utility company's 1957 budget is $2,000,000 for laying a 50-mile natural gas transmission line from Kingston to a point near Albany where Central Hudson will tie in with the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company. The new connection will provide a second source of natural gas supply for Central Hudson and, in addition to reinforcing its existing gas system, will help meet the increased gas requirements of the rapidly developing Kingston-Saugerties-Catskill area.

After allowing for expenditures on the two major projects and $1,000,000 for the completion of the addition to the company's Poughkeepsie South Road general office buildings, a budget of about $9,000,000 remains for narmal reinforcement and expansion of the company's facilities.

Other large projects included in the budget are:

1. The construction, at a cost of approximately $500,000, of about 16 miles of high voltage transmission line from Poughkeepsie to the Red Hook-Rhinebeck area to supply the growth in electric load in that region.

2. Construction of new subdistrict distribution headquarters at Saugerties, Stanfordville and Greenville, costing about $180,000.

3. The construction of about 9 miles of high voltage transmission line from Catskill to Coxsackie, requiring an expenditure of about $340,000.

4. Substantial reinforcements to the subtransmission system to the Beacon area, requiring $175,000.

5. Reinforcement of the secondary underground network in the downtown business district in Poughkeepsie, at $150,000.

6. The construction of a central warehouse and maintenance facilities at Elting's Corners, near the Thruway interchange at New Paltz, at $300,000.

7. A gas line reinforcement costing an estimated $200,000 to the Montgomery-Maybrook area to meet increasing demands for natural gas in that area and, at the same time, provide for future residential, commercial and industrial growth.

In addition, a large number of projects calling for individual expenditures of less than $100,000 are budgeted for both the electric and gas systems.

More Winter!

Six more weeks of winter are in store for the eastern half of the nation, if the legendary ground hog forecast is correct.

While two inches of snow fell in the city and county last night to keep the area mindful of winter, the Associated Press reported today the ground hog at Punxsutawney, Pa., an oracle always checked on this date, crawled out of his winter burrow at dawn today, saw his shadow and scurried back into his hole.

By tradition this means six more weeks of wintry weather. At least, that's what Sam Light, president of the Punxsutawney Ground Hog Club says.

GOP Sets Aim on Trimming Top Budget, Harriman's Surplus Revenue Is Scored

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 2 (AP)—Republican Legislative leaders today accused Democratic Gov. Harriman of collecting, for the third straight year, more revenue than was needed to balance the budget.

And they said the GOP majority would work diligently to trim down the record $1,617,400,000 budget Harriman sent to the Legislature yesterday.

Sen. Austin W. Erwin, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Assemblyman William H. Mackenzie of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee noted that the Republican-controlled Legislature had pared 20 million from Harriman's budget last year.

The governor, in his budget message, said the surplus at the end of the 1956-57 fiscal year, ending March 31 would run about 35 million.

Said Erwin and Mackenzie: "Mr. Harriman's estimate of the surplus at 35 million is confusing in view of the actual situation which indicates an 80-million surplus."

The GOP fiscal chiefs said the Democratic administration had collected 85 million dollars more than was necessary in 1955-56, and 80 million more for 1956-57.

In each year, they said, Harriman blocked GOP tax-cut measures and finally signed one last year for an income-tax cut totaling 40 million.

"Is Mr. Harriman," Erwin and Mackenzie asked, "in now setting the surplus at only 35 million, still trying to justify his arbitrary obstruction in the past of tax relief for the people?"

The proposed budget, the first in New York history to top 1½ billion dollars, shows Harriman is claiming credit for several proposals originated by Republicans, Erwin and Mackenzie said.

They referred to a plan for tax relief for New Yorkers paying income taxes to Massachusetts, where they work, as well as New York, and another bill to boost state aid to "flat grant" school districts from $125 to $129 per weighted pupil.

Harriman last year vetoed GOP measures that would have carried these out, Erwin and Mackenzie said.

Both Harriman and GOP leaders have promised that there will be a tax reduction this year, along the lines of the one-year-only measure approved last year. This provided 15 per cent reduction on the first $100 of tax due, and 10 per cent on the next $100. The maximum reduction was $35.

Protestant Churches Seek $11,500,000 for Overseas

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Protestant churchgoers in the United States will be asked to dig firmly into their pockets for a whopping 11½ million dollars to help the destitute abroad in 1957.

The goal is the highest in history for the united appeal for overseas relief and reconstruction. It was announced by Harper Sibley, chairman of Church World Service.

CWS is the cooperative agency through which 35 major denominations administer global assistance programs.

Sibley said the appeal climax will be March 31, set aside as the "one great hour of sharing" with special services in thousands of U. S. churches.

The 1957 goal is nearly $750,000 above last year's. A major relief item is continued assistance to Hungarian refugees.

The United Lutheran Church in America has exceeded—for the first time—the 10 million dollar mark in apportionment receipts from the 32 constituent synods in 1956.

Contributions Higher

Dr. Edmund F. Wagner of New York, treasurer of the church, said the receipts from the 32 synods in the U. S. and Canada were $7,115,049, over 1½ million more than the previous year's total.

Additionally, the 4,500 congregations of the UCLA contributed $1,582,244 to Lutheran World Action and $1,314,427 for other special causes, pushing the combined total to $10,011,720, this was nearly 20 per cent over the 1955 collection.

Berlin, deep in the Soviet zone, has a telephone ministry which German church officials say has brought spiritual comfort to more than a hundred persons each week since the program was launched last fall. By dialing a number the Ecumenical Press Service reports, people in need of consolation can contact the Ecumenical Order of St. Luke, which stands by to help the despairing.

The annual education meeting of the National Council of Churches will be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, for the fifth consecutive year, the church organization announced. Thirty-nine Protestant denominations will be represented at the sessions, which start next Thursday and will run for a week.

Latter-Day Relief Society to Meet

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Kingston Branch Relief Society will meet Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Harry S. Gray, 23 Van Buren street at 8 p. m.

The evening lecture "Theology—Characters and Teachings of the Book of Mormon" shall be given by Mrs. Wendell Gray of Barclay Heights. All members and their friends are cordially invited to attend. The Relief Society president has called an officer's meeting for 7:30 p. m. preceding the regular meeting.

Youth Conference Slated Sunday At Dutch Church

As an appropriate ending to Youth Week, the Reformed Churches of the Classis of Ulster are sponsoring a youth conference at Fair Street Reformed Church Sunday at 3 p. m., it was announced by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, minister of Old Dutch Reformed Church.

Following the registration period there will be an opening worship service conducted by the New Paltz young people. The Rev. Roy Adelburg of Marbletown Reformed Church will bring greetings as Classis youth adviser.

Five Discussion Groups

The total group will break up into five discussion groups. The discussion topics will be on the theme of Youth Week, "Consider Your Call."

The five groups will be led by Miss Anne Elder of New Paltz; Mrs. J. Foster Welwood and Mrs. Robert Crago of the Fair Street Church and Mrs. John Warren and Miss Blanche Wagg of the Old Dutch Church. After the discussion sessions and "coke time," the total conference will convene in the sanctuary to hear a panel summarization of the main points of the five conferences.

The panel will be composed of Mayor Frederick H. Stang, Dr. Earl Soper, Robert Crago, Alan McCorkle, and Horace Sarr. The Rev. Dean Dykstra of Fair Street Church will act as moderator.

A spaghetti supper will be served for all of the delegates in the parish room. Following this fellowship hour, Holy Communion will be celebrated in the sanctuary, the Reverend Cuyler Thayer of the Rosendale Church officiating with ministers of the Classis assisting.

African Union Church to Observe Interracial Day

Interracial Day will again be observed on the Sunday nearest February 12, the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln, the great emancipator and Richard Allen, the Negro emancipator, according to the Rev. S. Bradley Chappell, pastor of African Union Methodist Church, 12 Foxhall avenue.

The observance will be held February 10 at 7:30 p. m. at Olive Bridge Methodist Church where the Rev. H. B. Kishpaugh is pastor, he said.

The newly organized teenage choir of 14 conducted by the Rev. Reginald L. McHugh, assistant pastor of the African Union Church will supply the musical presentations.

Bridge Opens Here Over Hudson

bridge authority who attended were Harry Cohen, of Newburgh; former Congressman Jay LeFevre of New Paltz; William K. Hagginbothom of Catskill. Mrs. James F. Loughran, widow of the former chairman of the authority, also attended.

Dedication in May

Although the more extensive dedication ceremony is planned in May, history had a beginning this morning as cars traveled the 7,793-foot long deck of the glistening span which was erected at a cost of $19,733,428, the biggest and costliest investment by the bridge authority, it was reported.

More work remains before the May dedication since severe winter weather and other factors delayed the pouring of sidewalks and curbing on the span but the authority decided to place temporary wooden curbing along sections where the sidewalk and curbing are unfinished.

Dr. Steinman's report noted that all details of the sub-structure contract were finished "except for some minor clean-up" and that on the superstructure, "The steelwork is completed except for painting, which will be done in the spring. The concrete roadway slab is completely poured and only two-foot concrete emergency walks for approximately 2,800 linear feet of bridge remain to be poured when weather permits."

Signs Warn On Speed

Temporary toll booths near the site of the permanent booths on the west approach were in service for the first traffic, and many signs bore notices to drivers.

They include a speed limit of 35 miles per hour on the approaches and 25 miles per hour on the span. Officials indicated this regulation will be strictly enforced.

The authority has agreed to keep the span open "around the clock" despite lack of lights. Following and inspection tour last week, officials decided that with proper speed limit traffic could proceed safely at night.

Merritt - Chapman Scott of New York city was the contractor for the sub-structure, and the Harris Structural Steel Co., of New York city, built the superstructure.

It is the sixth vehicular span across the Hudson river between New York city and Albany.

Bridge Dimensions

The steel structure, 1½ miles between abutments, features twin-deck continuous truss units of 500-800-500 foot spans centered over the two navigable channels. These channel units are separated by a central continuous unit of 500-500 foot spans. Each channel unit is flanked on the shore side with one 300 foot single truss span plus aproach girder spans. Truss spans are supported on eight reinforced concrete river piers varying in height from 129 to 194 feet above the water. Approach roads connect with Route 9G on the east and with Route 32 on the west side.

The 36 foot roadway on this high level structure of deck construction soars on a 5,200 foot vertical curve to an elevation 253 feet above the water at mid-span.

The river is bridged between New York city and New Jersey by the George Washington Bridge, the Tappan Zee at Tarrytown—a link with the Thruway—the Bear Mountain Bridge near West Point, the Mid-Hudson Bridge (Poughkeepsie and Highland) the Rip Van Winkle at Catskill and another span is planned to link Newburgh and Beacon. Also in planning is another between Ravena and Castleton, which will serve as a link to the Thruway in that area.

Cost Is $19,733,428

The Kingston-Rhinecliff span will cost the authority 50 per cent more than the total costs of the three bridges operated by the authority. The cost of $19,733,428 compares with $12,528,323 for the others.

The cost of the others:

Mid-Hudson Bridge, $7,823,931; Rip Van Winkle, $2,409,484; and the Bear Mountain Bridge, $2,294,908.

Planning for the Kingston-Rhinecliff span was begun 13 years ago, the spring of 1944, when Senator Wicks and Assemblyman Hatfield were granted approval of a $50,000 appropriation to explore a proposed bridge.

Asked More Study

The measure was vetoed by Governor Dewey who requested more information on the need for a span.

Successive attempts for legislation reached fruition in March, 1947, when Gov. Dewey signed a Wicks-Hatfield bill for the bridge job.

Dr. Steinman was engaged for preliminary studies and surveys but there remained impediments to the construction of the bridge.

His study estimated the cost of the present span at $14,000,000, or $6,000,000 greater than the $8,000,000 bond limit of the authority at that time.

In 1951, the bridge authority received permission to increase its bonded debt to $18,000,000. The amount at that time represented the steadily increasing estimates on the Kingston span as steel and labor costs were hiked.

The bonded debt limit was increased to $30,000,000 later in the 1951 session of the Legislature.

Considerable debate and discussion followed over the location of the site, it was finally approved for its present location about three miles north of the city.

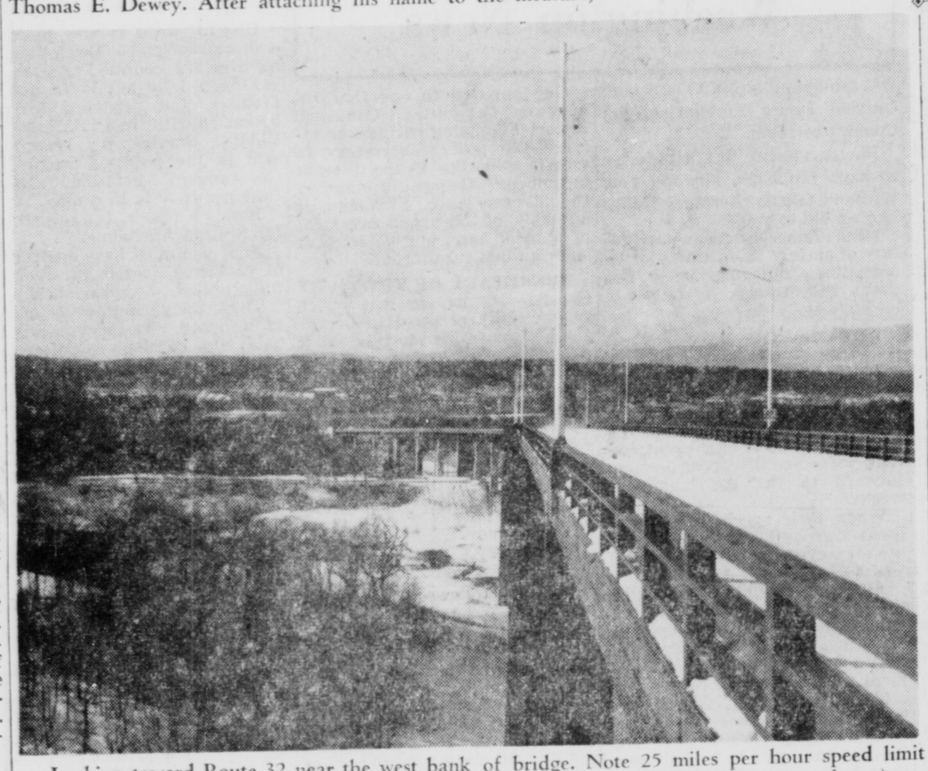

Delays in gaining rights of way, especially for the eastern approach, followed.

The first contract for construction, that for the rough grading of approaches, was let Jan. 21, 1954. Other contracts for the steel work were let that same summer.

The opening of the span today creates broad new horizons of industrial and commercial development in the Kingston-Rhinecliff area for a note of achievement was sounded on the triangle of progress—the Thruway, IBM, and today the bridge.

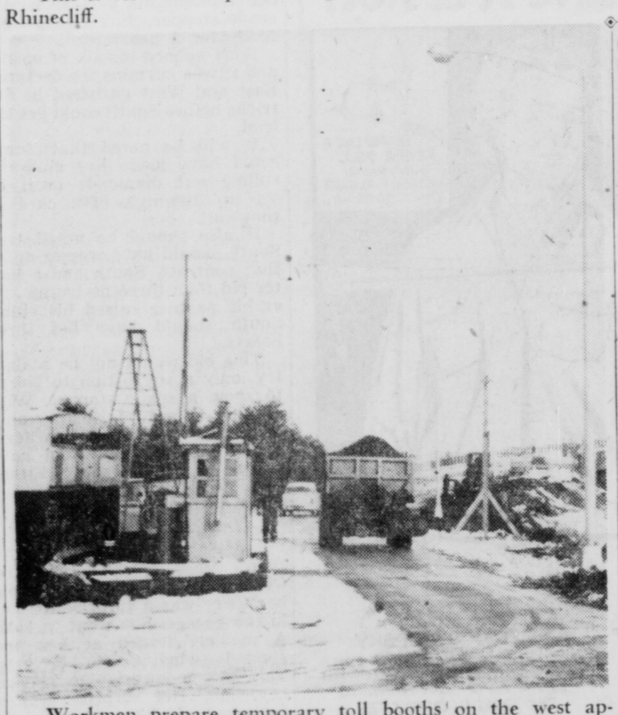

SIGNING OF BRIDGE BILL—This scene took place in the Executive Chambers, State Capitol, Albany, Monday, March 17, 1947, at 3:30 p. m. State Senator Arthur H. Wicks (left) Kingston Republican, stands with Assemblyman Ernest I. Hatfield, Dutchess Republican, to witness the signing of their Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge bill by Republican Governor Thomas E. Dewey. After attaching his name to the measure, the Governor said to the Senator, "This gives me a lot of pleasure, Arthur. Tell everybody back home the bill is signed." Today the span became a reality, linking Ulster and Dutchess counties for what is seen as the beginning of great area expansion and prosperity. (Photo, New York State Department of Publicity).

8-Year-Old Girl Succumbs After Heart Operation

Durham, N. C., Feb. 2 (AP)—A plucky little girl whose courage was stronger than her heart has died.

Sarita Ann Boswell, a cute 8-year-old, succumbed on an operating table at Duke Hospital here yesterday while a team of surgeons battled vainly to patch up her heart.

Outside the room, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor of Rocky Mount, and a crowd of friends and blood donors prayed.

Needed 14 Pints

The surgery was complicated by the fact that Sarita Ann needed 14 pints of type O-RH negative blood. A host of volunteers who had answered a previous plea for fresh blood stood by in relays during the 4½-hour operation.

While the girl's heart was stopped for 24 minutes, an artificial heart-lung, developed at Duke during the last year, pumped blood through her body.

Surgeons closed a hole in her heart about the size of a quarter between the chambers, opened a heart valve that had grown together and removed muscle tissue which obstructed a major blood vessel leading from the heart to the lung.

Resumed Breathing

The girl's heart then was closed and it resumed beating but about 40 minutes later it began to falter. For an hour and a half the team of surgeons worked to keep the little girl's heart going, employing the heart-lung again.

After the operation, the chief of the surgical team said, "There was too much wrong with her heart. It couldn't stand the strain."

To Scrap Heavy Bombers

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—Gen. Nathan F. Twining says the air force will scrap its B36 heavy bombers as they are replaced by the new all-jet B52s. The air force chief of staff told the House Armed Services Committee yesterday that the B36s will be junked because no way has been found economically to convert them to transport or other use. Besides, he said, they are expensive to maintain. Twining said the B36, a propeller-driven plane and the biggest aircraft ever flown, was "the best bomber in the world when it was introduced." But he said the B52 is "much better."

Three Ellenville Area Accidents Blamed on Ice

Ellenville state police investigated three vehicular accidents late Friday afternoon involving seven automobiles and a tractor-trailer.

There were no injuries and no arrests. All three accidents were on Route 209 and all were due to icy roads, it was reported.

Three cars and a tractor-trailer were involved in one of the accidents when the truck jackknifed on Route 209 half a mile north of Kerhonkson at 6 p. m. Traffic was tied up for more than two hours while a wrecker straightened the tractor-trailer out again.

Jacknifed on Hill

Troopers A. A. Zaccari and R. Juna reported that the tractor-trailer, operated by John Cortesi, 27, of Narrowsburg, jacknifed on a hill and struck the three cars. None of the cars was reported heavily damaged. Involved with the truck were a 1947 sedan operated by Fred Jensen of Allaben, a 1956 sedan operated by Francis Schmeltz of Cottekill and a 1955 sedan operated by Sylvia Herschowsky of Accord.

About an hour earlier at almost the same spot three cars were involved in a collision. They were a 1954 sedan operated by Theodore Nelson, 57, of Kerhonkson, a 1956 sedan operated by Thomas B. Skiff, 28, of Ellenville, and a 1956 sedan operated by Joseph Giunta, 49, of 77 West Pierpont street.

Struck in Rear

The Skiff car slowed to avoid another vehicle and was struck in the rear by the Nelson car, troopers said. The Nelson car then bounced off into the path of the Giunta car approaching from the opposite direction.

At 6:45 p. m. on Route 209 about 300 feet south of the Napanoch bridge a 1947 sedan operated by Joseph O'Connor of Wawarsing, proceeding north, skidded on ice and went off the right side of the highway where it struck a tree. Trooper Zaccari investigated.

Freighters Collide

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—The coast guard said today that two freighters collided last night about 40 miles in the Atlantic off the Virginia Capes. Involved in the collision, the coast guard said, were the vessels William H. Carruth and the S. S. Armonia. No injuries were reported. The Carruth, described as only slightly damaged, proceeded toward Havana. The Armonia, likewise incurring little damage, proceeded to Norfolk, Va.

Seven From City Complete Public Speaking Course

Seven Kingstonians were among those who have just completed a 14-week course in public speaking offered in the mid-Hudson area by Dale Carnegie Courses.

The course was held at the Nelson House in Poughkeepsie each Friday night. Dale Carnegie instructor was Nelson J. Eliscu, formerly of the faculty of New York University. Enrolled in the class were a large number of business and professional men and women from the mid-Hudson area.

Enrolled from Kingston were: Frank A. Byer, 230 Lucas avenue, a special commercial representative of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp.; William H. Dehmer, 75 Merilina avenue, a salesman for Sun Oil Company; Francis J. Donnellan, 14 Irving Place, commercial representative for Central Hudson; Frank Schilling Jr., 12 Roosevelt avenue, zone manager, Investors Diversified Services; Gordon M. Turnbull, RD1, Box 11C, Kingston, special commercial representative, Central Hudson; Claude J. Williams, 80 Clifton avenue, supervisor of construction department, Central Hudson and Jack Crawford Jr. 22 Washington avenue, a reporter for The Freeman.

Freeman Man Honored

Others enrolled from Ulster county were Joseph Donohue, Lake Mohonk, front office manager, Lake Mohonk Mountain House; William H. Matteson, Box 718, Highland, Shell Oil Company; William R. Parker, 13 North Manheim Boulevard, New Paltz, general foreman, Central Hudson, and Edward W. Scribner, Milton avenue, Highland, Central Hudson.

Assisting Mr. Eliscu were Quentin Johnson of Rhinebeck and Bruce Matthews of Red Hook, graduates of the course.

At the final banquet in the Nelson House, Mr. Crawford received the highest award for achievement in the course. Mr. Williams received the award for best impromptu speech.

Saud to Extend

The announcement said Saud would spend some additional days at the Blair House, the government guest house. The king and Eisenhower are expected to meet again late next week.

Today, Saud was scheduled to drive to the U. S. Naval Academy at nearby Annapolis, Md. His program included a luncheon with the midshipmen and attendance at a basketball game between the Navy and Duke University.

Deliverers Still Out

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—The strike of newspaper deliverers against 26 wholesalers moved into its second day today but New York city publishers found legal means to distribute their papers to the suburbs. Mediation efforts to settle the dispute ended in failure last night but a five-man appeals board authorized the publishers to deliver their papers to rail terminals for shipment to the suburbs. Another mediation session was set for Monday afternoon. No union meetings were scheduled over the weekend.

Many Pre-War Cars Junked on Insurance, Check

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 2 (AP)—The number of pre-war cars being junked in New York is increasing under new programs requiring insurance and safety inspections.

Laws requiring liability insurance on all cars registered in New York and safety inspections of pre-1953 vehicles went into effect yesterday.

Increases in the number of old cars being discarded were reported in New York city, Syracuse, Schenectady, Buffalo and Albany.

One Buffalo junk dealer said the number of cars turned in to him had risen 25 per cent in January. A Schenectady dealer reported a 500 per cent increase in the past two weeks. He said sales to him also had included 1946-48 models.

Search Renewed In Neighborhood For Grimes' Clues

Chicago, Feb. 2 (AP) — Police were back in the neighborhood of the slain Grimes sisters today seeking clues in their deaths as the mystery of how they died appeared no nearer solution.

As police renewed their search of the area where Barbara Grimes, 15, and Patricia, 13, lived, the confession of Edward (Bennie) Bedwell, held for their slaying, appeared to be breaking down.

Blamed Beatings

Bedwell, 21-year-old illiterate skid row drifter, has repudiated a signed statement in which he said he and a companion killed the girls. He said Sheriff's police beat and kicked him into admitting he and a man named Frank killed the girls on Jan. 13.

However, medical evidence and statements of Bedwell's acquaintances have supported his contention that the confession was a lie.

Police said last night that Ralph Saylor, 25, a fellow worker of Bedwell's at a factory, told them he was on a bus with Bedwell from 12:30 a. m. Dec. 29 when they got off work until 1:05 a. m.

Medical experts have said they believe the girls were killed a few hours after they were reported missing Dec. 28 when they failed to return home from a movie. Their nude frozen bodies were found in a snow-covered roadside near suburban Willow Springs on Jan. 22.

Still Has Case

Bedwell's statement disclosed by Sheriff Joseph Lohman last Sunday said the girls had spent a week with him and his companion in skid row hotels and taverns. Then they drove into the southwestern suburban area, knocked the girls unconscious, undressed them and threw their bodies into the ditch.

Lohman reiterated his belief last night that he had a substantial case against Bedwell. He has denied sheriff's police had beaten Bedwell during three days of questioning.

Youths Convicted Of Simple Assault

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Two youths have been convicted of simple assault for a fight with a newspaper photographer and a copyboy last September.

A General Sessions Court jury of eight men and four women yesterday returned the verdict against Richard Nelson, 19, and Joseph Ware, 20, clearing them of a more serious charge of second degree assault.

The jury's decision makes the pair liable to a prison term not to exceed three years. Conviction of the second degree assault charge could have sent them to prison for five years.

March 5 Sentencing

Judge Gerald Culkin set March 5 for determining the sentence and continued the two in $1,000 bond.

Nelson and Ware were found guilty of attacking photographer Leonard Morgan, 46, of the New York Journal - American and copyboy Ralph Gonzalez, 22, of the New York Daily News while they were on duty for their newspapers last Sept. 25 at Broadway and 51st street.

Nelson was convicted of assaulting both men and Ware was found guilty of taking part in the attack on Gonzalez. Both youths were acquitted of an assault on Philip Greitzer, 43, a Daily News photographer.

Briefly Told

Pittsburgh, Feb. 2 (AP) — The Ohringer Home Furniture Co. and the Tilmore Corp. have merged.

The new organization includes Tilmore retail furniture outlets in Buffalo and Elmira, N. Y., and Toledo, Ohio, and Ohringer branches in McKeesport, Braddock and Greensburg, Pa.

Abe Ohringer, president of Ohringer Co., said yesterday no personnel changes were involved.

Hamburg, N. Y., Feb. 2 (AP) — Two automobile drivers were killed last night in a headon collision on Route 5 just south of Buffalo.

They were Angelo Meli, 38, of Franham, and Harvey Horton, 58, of Lake View. Both villages are in Erie county.

State troopers said one of the autos apparently swerved across the center line and hit the other headon.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 2 (AP) — Louis Corapi, 65, is charged with first-degree murder in the stabbing of his wife Rose, 53.

He was in satisfactory condition at Albany Hospital today with what police said was a self-inflicted stab wound of the abdomen.

Police said Corapi had admitted stabbing his wife and then himself Thursday with a five-inch carving knife.

Police said Corapi had separated from his wife a month ago and Mrs. Corapi had stayed in the family apartment here.

Presbyterian Guild Meeting Scheduled

The Fellowship Guild of First Presbyterian Church will hold its regular meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Walter Dunham, 76 Wilson avenue.

Bermuda, which is 753 miles southeast of New York, is not in the tropics. It is in the temperate zone.

Ike Goes South, Wilsons in Party

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP) — President Eisenhower, accompanied by Secretary of Defense Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, flew to Georgia today for two days of golf and relaxation.

Wilson told reporters he planned to go on to Miami, Fla., "sometime this afternoon." He is starting a two-week vacation.

Mamie Stays

Eisenhower, who was not accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, greeted the awaiting Wilsons at the ramp of his plane, the Columbine III. The three posed briefly for photographers, then climbed aboard. The plane took off at 8:18 a. m. (EST) for Augusta, Ga.

Eisenhower and the Wilsons were jovial, with not outward sign of disagreements voiced this week in the wake of Wilson's statement on Monday that the National Guard harbored some draft dodgers during the Korean War.

Eisenhower told his news conference two days later the secretary's remark was very unwise. Mrs. Wilson said she thought Eisenhower's comment was "uncalled for."

Repeats Criticism

Wilson said last night he meant to cast no reflection on any individual Guardsmen, but he reiterated his criticism of a Guard training system which he termed inadequate. Eisenhower had said he agreed with Wilson on the need for a strong Guard training system.

Wilson, Others Discuss Proper Apple Labeling

A committee from the Ulster County Farmers' Union met with Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson at the court house Friday afternoon for a discussion on the proper labeling of out-of-state apples being repacked locally.

The committee included Angelo DeLewis, Bene Trapani and Mrs. Les Rice.

The committee said it was not opposed to the marketing of out-of-state apples but felt that such apples should be properly labeled as to point of origin.

Called Inferior

The group feels these apples, largely McIntosh from Michigan, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey, are of inferior grade ('utilities') and, packaged in local cold storage houses, are moving into the New York market under the protection of New York state labels, thus undermining the market for good apples grown in the Hudson valley.

Assemblyman Wilson assured the committee of his interest in the matter and said he would discuss the matter further with other legislators since any amendment to the present law would be state-wide in application.

The committee met in December with Senator Thomas C. Desmond of Newburgh to enlist his aid.

Leaving Mishap Scene Case Put Over Till Feb. 9

The case of a local man who was arrested early Friday evening on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident was adjourned to Saturday, Feb. 9 in City Court today.

Leo J. Matheia, 46, of 50 East Chester street, was arrested on the complaint of Lawrence McHugh, 31, of 24 Elizabeth street, after their cars were in collision in front of Kingston Hospital.

Officers Thomas McGrane and Harold DeGraff, who investigated, reported a 1954 suburban, driven by McHugh, was headed south on Broadway when it was in collision with a 1953 sedan operated by Matheia, traveling north on Broadway.

Matheia was arrested on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident on McHugh's complaint. Matheia was picked up near Benedictine Hospital. There were no personal injuries, police reported.

The McHugh car sustained damage to the left front fender, grill hood, left headlight, bumper guard and a tire was cut, police reported, while Matheia's car was damaged on the right front fender.

Time of the mishap was set at 6:27 p. m.

February Weather Outlook Is Given

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Weather Bureau said yesterday its month's outlook for February calls for temperatures to average above seasonal normals east of a line extending from the Great Lakes through central Texas. In the remainder of the nation below normal averages are expected.

Precipitation is predicted to exceed normal over most of the country except for near or subnormal amounts in the Pacific northwest and along the Gulf coast, the Bureau added.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 2, 1957

WELCOME DUTCHESS NEIGHBORS

The opening of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge today is an occasion for jubilation and the event may well go down in history as the beginning of a new era of prosperity for the people on the east and west banks of the Hudson River in the immediate vicinity of the new bridge.

Area residents of the west bank are pleased and privileged to extend a welcome hand to their neighbors across the bridge on the east bank.

Fulfiling the dream of practically a generation, hands across the river now becomes a reality with the opening of the bridge linking Kingston with Northern Dutchess County. The complete impact of the bridge when it is considered along with the Thruway cannot be determined at this time. However, we can look for increased activity between the areas now linked together by the bridge. The easy access now between the two sides of the river here will mean a change of travel and closer relationship which cannot yet be measured. Anyone who cannot see the great field of usefulness in this cross-river achievement has blurred vision.

It is appropriate to recall that much of the credit for this important highway project belongs to Senator Arthur H. Wicks.

Efforts to get a bridge across the Hudson River here goes back a long way. Civic organizations, municipal bodies, veterans and firemen's associations and individuals from both sides of the river conferred time and again down through the years and with Senator Wicks as their leader kept up the fight for the bridge. Senator Wicks first introduced legislation in 1942 for the construction of a bridge here. Prior to that he had asked consideration for the construction of the bridge by the Postwar Planning Commission. At one stage of the struggle, the bridge bill was passed but vetoed by the governor. But veto of the bill did not discourage Senator Wicks or his supporters of the project. They persisted in their determination and today we have the bridge.

We can and should be optimistic for the immediate and long-range future. The Thruway already has wrought a great transformation and the bridge opening will bring further stimulation.

It is up to us to meet the responsibilities and to be dedicated to the challenges that face us. With high courage and steadfast purpose, we should go forward and bring greater opportunity for the people of our communities.

A man in Texas has insured his brain for $100,000. Everything is big in Texas—even the domes, apparently.

NEW CHAPTER FOR GOP

People interested in the nation's changing political patterns will follow closely the performance of the Republican party's new national chairman, H. Meade Alcorn Jr. of Connecticut.

His most distinguishing characteristic politically is his clear alignment with the Eisenhower branch of the GOP. The retiring chairman, Leonard Hall, was basically identified with the Eisenhower forces, but always managed to keep effective lines open to the more conservative elements.

Since Alcorn was the President's personal choice, it must be presumed that he and his principal backers now believe they can put the Eisenhower stamp more firmly on the Republican party.

Obviously they have taken encouragement on this point from the President's overwhelming re-election, in which for the second time he vastly outdistanced most other GOP candidates.

Naturally, the party's right wing representatives have not tossed in the towel. They are still strongly planted in many places, and will be fighting to restore their position in others as the elections of 1958 and 1960 come closer.

The kind of candidates the party presents to the voters in those battles will supply the real measure of the extent to which Mr. Eisenhower has succeeded in remaking the GOP in his image. Alcorn's appointment was not the first step in this task, and it is certainly far from the last.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

LOYAL OPPOSITION

The questioning of John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State, by the Democratic members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is a sound function of that body and of those Senators. The principal reason for the existence of the two party system in the United States is that the party not in power will scrutinize the conduct of the party in office and will debate whatever issues arising therefrom.

This policy was pursued by the Republican Party during the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations and no man in public office was given such a hard time as was meted out to the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, who was accused of being soft on Communists. Those who engaged in this assault on Dean Acheson never regarded their conduct as improper or unpatriotic because they felt that, as Republicans, it was their function to safeguard the people's rights and interests. Thus, the hearings on the dismissal of General Douglas MacArthur, held before the Committee on Armed Services and the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate, was a full debate before the public on the military and diplomatic policy of the Truman Administration in the Far East.

The Republicans cannot expect that their conduct in the Middle East, policies which generally speaking have failed as the Truman Administration's policies failed in the Far East, will not come under similar examination. The questioning of John Foster Dulles by Senator Fulbright has been sharp and to the point.

It is really dangerous, in a country such as ours, when the party in opposition does not examine the conduct, the policies and purposes, of the party in office. Men grow fat with power and tend to grant to themselves divine rights. Thus, the entire fiscal policy of the United States needs re-examination, particularly as regards taxes. It cannot be right that the people should be taxed into poverty at a time when the cost of living is so high. Representative Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., has introduced a bill to have a Hoover-type commission appointed to study the defects and inequities of the Federal tax structure, including the income tax and to recommend constructive changes. Such commisions are useful, but I prefer the Congressional committee using open hearings so that whatever happens may be known to the public.

For instance, all the talk about monopolies in restraint of trade and consent decrees arranged in the office of the Attoney General may have some value, but the concentration of economic power is becoming increasingly obvious and what is required is a full study of the subject to discover whether the competitive system has not become outmoded in certain fields of our economy.

However, Congressional committees sometimes become lopsided, too, but as their record is public, much can be done to correct them. For instance, why is the Teamsters Union being investigated but not the automobile workers union? Is it not true that one local of the automobile workers union is Communist-dominated and is that not one of the most important ones? It would seem that here is a quarrel between Dave Beck and Walter Reuther which has all sorts of labor and political ramifications, but as long as testimony is being taken in the open, the truth will somehow come out. It is only when everything is done behind closed doors, in secrecy, and as part of political machination that political evil proliferates. Whatever is brought into the open is good for the country even if it does, for a moment, give some satisfaction to our enemies.

Their spies probably know the worst anyhow but the American people are happy-go-lucky and like to believe the best, but become panicky when things go wrong. Not every error is historically evil and not every political mistake leads to great national tragedies. Some things are serious; others pass in the night like the noisy banter of a so-called vocalist. If the people know what is going on, they will take what comes in their stride. It is only when secret men do secret things that the country becomes nervous and the people anxious. Enough anxiety in a country like ours produces panic, followed by a depression. The Congressional investigations, therefore, are most useful and should not be resented by those who liked them when only the Democrats were in the skillet.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

ANXIETY, TRAUMATIC AND CARDIAC NEUROSIS

We were speaking yesterday about neurosis—the belief of an individual that he has an ailment when none exists—and why it exists. Today let us go on to some of the commoner neuroses.

One is the anxiety neurosis in which there is usually some trouble somewhere in the home, love or business life—grief, worry, fright, or other condition causing anxiety. The patient is nervous, excited most of the time with rapid heart beat, excessive perspiration, trembling and feeling of suffocation or fear of death. While anxiety is greatly wearing mentally and physically, fortunately not too many of these individuals ever become inmates of mental institutions.

Another neurosis is called traumatic neurosis (trauma meaning injury). This may occur when a person has been injured at work, wounded in war, injured in an accident. Even after the injured part has recovered or the wound completely healed, he may so suffer in his mind from the shock that he is unfitted for some time to do any physical work even when there is no physical disability. However, so real is traumatic neurosis to the individual that compensation boards, pension boards, judges and juries may award compensation not merely for the physical injury but for the damage done to the nervous system which makes the person unable, perhaps for a considerable time, to earn his usual salary.

Another common neurosis is called the cardiac (heart) neurosis. You can hardly blame an individual for believing he has heart trouble when his heart is beating 90 times to the minute instead of 72 to 76, if the beating is irregular, if the heart seems to stop for a second, if two beats run close together, or he has a pain in the region of his heart. Similarly there can be stomach or intestinal neuroses, liver, kidney or blood vessel neuroses, all brought about by that conflict between the individual and society or life in general. The whole point is that while there may be no organic or real reason for the person to believe he has heart, kidney, lung or other trouble, the fact that he has that belief makes him unfit to do his work properly, to face life's problems.

The treatment consists in making a thorough examination so that both patient and physician know no real organic ailments exist. After this an attempt is made to find the cause or causes of why he believes he has this ailment. The method used to find why the patient thinks the way he does is to let him talk without any restraint, let him tell all that is on his mind. All the fears, dreads, or other emotional disturbances are brought to the surface and carefully examined. Sometimes after one or more long conversations, the physician is able to untangle a lot of misconceptions or misunderstandings, correct the patient's viewpoints about his troubles, and so remove his anxieties.

"All Right, Chaps, Let's Get On With the Job"

Washington News

Washington —(NEA)— Scene: Outside House Foreign Affairs Committee room.

Photographer: "It's a pleasure to have you back, Mr. Acheson. We can't talk to Secretary Dulles like we did to you."

Dean Acheson, former secretary of state: "He misses a lot by not talking to photographers. But that's not strange, he misses a lot anyway."

DETAILS OF AN inaugural near-tragedy can now be told.

Pattie and Julie Nixon, the daughters of Vice President Nixon, almost missed going to the inaugural balls. The young ladies, who were too young to attend four years ago, had been looking forward to the big night for weeks.

When their specially designed dresses arrived at the last minute, however, it was discovered that they were far too short.

As a result, Mother Nixon told the girls that they just couldn't go to the party in such dresses. Naturally, there were wails of protest and cries of disappointment.

The VP's mother, who is living with them, came to the rescue. Working against time, she lowered the hems in both dresses in a hurry, and the Nixon clan all went to the affair happy and in style.

COCKTAIL ODDS—handicapping the party circuit rumors:

Ten to one against Assistant to the President Sherman Adams turning into a playboy type during the second term. He has been a real gay blade at several recent parties. He and his wife have been going out more than usual, which started the gossip about his becoming a latter-day party boy.

Twenty to one that the Inaugural Committee will go into the red. Parade seats sales were low. Officials blame it on TV and weather. Result of a committee deficit makes it:

One hundred to one that Inaugural Committee Chairman Robert Flemming will not be offered the post of secretary of treasury by Ike if the present incumbent George Humphrey should ever leave. Flemming is a buddy of Ike's and president of a bank here, but he couldn't show an inaugural profit.

SECRETARY OF TREASURY George Humphrey has been swamped by personal mail ever since he made his remarks about balancing the budget and the possibility of a depression which could curl hair if the budget were not reduced.

Ninety-nine per cent of the mail congratulates him for this statement. One letter, written in creaky handwriting indicating that it came from an oldster, said:

"Curly hair might be pretty on some people but I don't want it at the cost you suggest."

THE WOMEN'S DIVISION of the Democratic National Committee received an urgent inquiry a few days ago from a volunteer fire department in a small Pennsylvania town.

The firemen wanted to know: How to conduct meetings.

What services or ceremonies can be used when a member dies.

Suggestions for table decorations at banquets and birthday parties.

The matter is under consideration.

"Maybe we'll send them our 'Read and Sew' campaign literature," says a staffer.

FEW PEOPLE ever knew of the musical talents of Arthur Larson until he became the new boss of the U. S. Information Agency. For example, he's an expert on the emotional impacts of national anthems. Other night at a cocktail party he hummed and analyzed the anthems of a half-dozen countries, including that of Russia, which he rates high for emotional appeal, by the way.

He thinks the "Star-Spangled Banner" is the best.

UNCLE SAM is now pushing a shrimp recipe booklet for cooks all over the country.

Financed by a private manufacturer and produced in cooperation with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, it's being resold to the public through the Government Printing Office. Cost per copy is 15 cents.

Here's a teaser. It's the recipe for Shrimp Amandine.

First you must have one pound of packaged, frozen, pre-cooked, fully peeled, deveined shrimp.

Thaw the shrimp, saute a cup of blanched, slivered almonds in half cup of melted butter or margarine until lightly brown, remove the almonds, add the shrimp and saute until slightly brown. Add half a teaspoon of salt, a dash of pepper and two tablespoons of chopped parsley and the almonds. Serve on toast points.

Opening lead—♠ 6

Written for NEA Service

In general you will do well to lead your partner's suit but there are a few definite exceptions.

The first exception is immortalized in a classic bridge axiom. You don't lead your partner's suit when you don't have it.

A second exception is against a trump contract when you open a trump to cut down enemy ruffing power. A third exception is when you have a lead of your own that is so good it becomes obvious.

Today's hand illustrates a fourth case. West did not have much of a spade suit but North and South had contracted for the no-trump game in a way that indicated that maybe each one thought his partner held a spade stopper. Surely they were ready for a heart lead.

West opened his six of spades and it was curtains for declarer. East and West gathered in five tricks before South could get the lead.

It will be noted that South could have made five clubs by ruffing out diamonds until he set up dummy's fifth card in that suit.

It also should be noted that South should have wound up at that contract. South had a better bid than three no-trump after his partner raised his clubs. South should have bid three hearts.

This bid would not be a slam try ,only a suggestion to North to show a spade stopper. With nothing in spades North would have gone to four clubs whereupon South either would have passed or bid the game. Either way he would have showed a profit instead of a loss.

Monkeyshines

La Mesa, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Charles Huckabey's husband told her there was a surprise for her in the garage. She went to look. A monkey leaped at her and started swinging on her arm. This was a surprise to Huckabey, too. His surprise was a packaged gift. The money was turned over to police, who started looking for its owner.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

Howard C. Shurter, county director Veterans' Service Agency, and William Hartman, state veteran counselor NYS Division of Veteran Aflairs, submit another in a series of articles on rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen and their dependents:

Pension—Among the first bills introduced in the Congress is a proposal to increase Veteran Administration service-connected compensation payments by 10 to 27 per cent. This benefit is paid to ex-servicemen who are considered disabled by reason of injury or disease incurred or aggravated by service.

New Ruling—Veterans need not repay the US Government the premiums paid on their commerical life insurance under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 according to a recent US Supreme Court ruling. Under this law, the government paid premiums on commercial life insurance policies at the request of servicemen while they were in the Armed Forces, then when they were discharged from military service and after they allowed their policies to lapse, the government demanded repayment to cover the premium payments it made on their commerical insurance. In a number of cases the servicemen's GI insurance dividends were withheld in an attempt to collect the amount due the government. The Supreme Court ruling may cause the government to pay withheld GI insurance dividends and cancel debts due the United States for this reason.

Bonus—Payments of the New Hampshire Korean state bonus have been stopped temporarily because the original bonus appropriation has been expended. Additional funds are expected to be authorized during the current session of the state legislature. Bonus application forms may be obtained from the Adjutant General's office, State Military Reservation, Concord, New Hampshire.

Legislation—During the first week the 85th Congress was in session, 23 bills on behalf of veterans were introduced by the chairman of the House of Representatives Committee on Veterans' Affairs. In addition, hearings on a GI Bill for peacetime veterans have been placed on the agenda of this committee. The purpose of such hearings will be to determine the needs of peacetime veterans, that is, those servicemen who entered service after January 31, 1955. The outgrowth of these hearings according to the committee chairman will probably be a peacetime GI Bill which would include educational rights, unemployment compensation, mustering-out pay, and other benefits. Any award of GI Bill benefits to peacetime veterans, however, is expected to be less liberal than those granted to World War 2 or Korean veterans.

Taxes—Veterans who were discharged from military service last year who have lost or misplaced their Federal income tax withholding statement, Form W-2, may obtain another by writing to the appropriate office: Air Force, U. S. Air Force Finance Center, 3800 York street, Denver 5, Colo.; Army, Finance Center, U. S. Army, Indianapolis 49, Ind.; Navy, Navy Finance Center, Cleveland 14, Ohio; Marines, Commandant, U. S. M. C., CDB, Washington 25, D. C. Veterans who do not have this form in their possession at the present time are urged to obtain another as soon as possible as it may be necessary for them to have it in completing their Federal income tax.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main street, Kingston.

Your Life And Mine

By CLYDE HERBERT SNELL

CHOOSING THE COLOR

In his recently published autobiography, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick tells about a girl, stricken by polio, to whom a sympathetic friend exclaimed, "Affliction does so color the life." "Yes," replied the girl, "and I propose to choose the color."

There are whole areas of life where our choices do not seem to count. They are like frail walls of sand built by little hands around castles that are in the pathway of the tide. The sea ignores them. Life is like that. Afflictions never pay us an exploratory visit to see if they would be welcome. They probably know there would be no use to ask. For no heart ever would toss out the welcome mat for pain or sorrow.

Invited or not, these things come. We have little to say about it. But we do have the choice of what they will do to us—whether we allow them to make us sour and bitter and rebellious; or whether we make up our minds to keep sweet and brave and creative. The sympathetic friend was right: afflictions do color life. But the girl arose to a nobility of truth which many overlook: the choice of the color is up to us. As someone has said: we cannot keep the birds from flying over our heads but we can keep them from nesting in our hair. Venice was made by some exiles who were driven into mud flats. "They turned their extremity into a jewel city."

Helen Keller, deaf, dumb and blind almost from birth, will always be remembered as a noble soul who insisted upon her God-given right to choose the color her affliction would give to her spirit and life. Commenting once upon the one resolution which "is the keynote of my life," she said: "It is this—always to regard as mere impertinences of fortune, the handicaps which were placed upon my life almost at the beginning. I resolved that they should not crush or dwarf my soul, but rather be made to blossom, like Aaron's rod, with flowers." Many lives, when affliction has laid its heavy hand upon them, have found the courage to be noble in the knowledge that Helen Keller insisted upon choosing the color which her affliction would impart to her life.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnstone of Downington, Pennsylvania, will always be remembered as parents who chose a beautiful color in which to garb their bereavement. Their son was killed by the Japanese in the battle of Luzon during the last Great War. Many parents, under similar circumstances, went off into violent tirades condemning all the Japanese. But Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone didn't do that. They arose, rather, to a creative nobility which has made their name immortal. For instead of allowing the tragedy to fire them with a soul-destroying vengeance they used their son's $10,000 of Government Insurance to establish a scholarship for Japanese students at Lafayette College.

Affliction colored their lives; but they chose the color. And the beauty of the hue they chose will remain undimmed when the hues of vengeance and bitterness have faded into oblivion.

Livestock Farms Alerted Against Disease Period

Drooping ears and a listless attitude in cattle and sheep at this time of year should alert livestock raisers that a disease known as listeriosis may be present, according to a bulletin today by the American Foundation for Animal Health.

Listeriosis apepars to be an increasing problem in some parts of the country. The greatest danger season for losses from this condition extends from December through March, Foundation officials say.

The disease was first reported in cattle and sheep less than 20 years ago. It is primarily a brain inflammation, appearing first as a fever, followed by indications of stupor, circling movements, drooping of an ear, paralysis of the jaw and in some cases, inflammation of the eye.

"Listeriosis may be more common than many livestock owners now realize," the Foundation says. "Accurate diagnosis depends upon laboratory isolation of the organism which causes the disease."

Veterinarians have reported some success in combating listeriosis if treatment can be started early. In an outbreak, the Foundation advises that affected animals be isolated and the remainder of the herd scattered over as large an area as possible.

Orders Mental Test

New York, Feb. 2 (AP) — A Bronx judge has ordered psychiatric examination of an ex-convict being held on charges of fatally wounding a taxi driver Dec. 19. The man, Leroy Keith, 42, is also wanted in Ohio in connection with the holdup murder of three men, police said. Keith was ordered to Bellevue Hospital for examination yesterday by Bronx County Judge Samuel Joseph. The prisoner's attorney told the court he could not prepare a defense because Keith is "incoherent and irregular in his speech." Keith, a Negro, is accused of fatally wounding David Suro, 47, of 149 Pavonia avenue, Jersey City, N. J., during a holdup attempt in the Bronx. Police said Suro prevented the holdup by deliberately ramming his cab into a police car. He died two days later.

Public Holds High Esteem for Nursing As Career for Girls; Has Its Rewards

By DOROTHY A. NAREL
Freeman Society Editor

In speaking generally with folks about town regarding nursing as a career for girls, I came across very few who didn't seem to think that it is a very rewarding profession.

"Where can you find a better education for a professional career, particularly for the amount of money that is spent, than in nursing," asked James Tobin, guidance director of the Kingston public schools.

"I think nursing is a wonderful career for girls especially since they can use the knowledge gained when they are married and have their own children."

Mr. Tobin was the person responsible for instituting Kiwanis Club scholarships for nurses. Today, four scholarships are awarded every year, two for each hospital.

When quizzed about monetary gains for nurses, Mr. Tobin said, "nursing is destined to take a position of great importance and salaries will also increase."

A mother, Mrs. Pasquale Fasano of 215 West Chester street, whose daughter is enrolled in the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing, expressed the feeling that her daughter would be better equipped to face the future with a nurses training.

"We urge girls, who want an interesting career to consider nursing," says Dr. Dudley Hargrave, Ulster County Commissioner of Health.

Dr. Hargrave particularly pointed out the benefits in public health nursing.

"Because of the demand for trained public health nurses, a girl today can almose write her own ticket. They choose the type of work they want to do, the state in which to live and can benefit from higher salaries. Scholarships are even given now to write off financial costs of training," he concluded.

How does the patient feel about nursing? Anyone torn with pain cannot help but feel that a nurse is at times hardboiled—perhaps, though, they are just disciplined to control emotion.

Public opinion also has it that there might possibly be a source of nurses yet untapped. The married woman, with commitments at home can only work a certain number of hours. These women are willing to work and, as one nurse said, (she preferred to remain anonymous).

"We can't possibly work a regular shift but are willing to devote our spare time to nursing providing hospitals will give us staggered hours."

Should this source of nursing help be neglected?

Advance in medical sciences, development of pre-payment insurance plans, wide spread hospital construction and increasing awareness of health needs has focused the public's attention on nursing. You can't have a hospital without nurses.

The profession is destined to grow in number and importance, as pointed out, and the "Florence Nightingdales" of our time should reap a better harvest.

A nurse is an angel of mercy—she must have maturity and adaptibility—it is a profession that demands and receives the respect of all peoples.

Acapulco Is Scene Of Liz Taylor, Mike Todd Nuptials

Acapulco, Mexico, Feb. 2 (AP)—Guests from New York, Hollywood and Mexico are arriving in this Pacific resort area for the wedding tonight of actress Elizabeth Taylor and producer Mike Todd.

It is to be held at a house already occupied by Miss Taylor on a small, quiet bay four miles from this resort.

It is the third marriage for each. Miss Taylor has just received a Mexican divorce from actor Michael Wilding. She and Todd arrived in Mexico nine days ago.

Todd, 47, and Miss Taylor, 24, are to be married by the mayor of Acapulco in a civil ceremony at 6 p. m. (5 p. m. EST), attended only by their immediate families and four Mexican witnesses.

Half an hour later they will be joined in a Jewish religious service, which may be attended by about 30 invited guests.

Then there is to be an informal reception.

The guests already on hand include the actress' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Taylor of Los Angeles; her brother Howard and his wife; Gene Tunney, Mrs. Hank Greenberg, and singer Eddie Fisher and his wife, Debbie Reynolds.

The producer's 27-year-old son, Mike Jr., was coming from Hollywood. Among others expected were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gimbel, Bernard Gimbel and the Countess Dumonceau.

Mario Moreno, the Mexican comic known as Catinflas, will be one of the witnesses of the civil ceremony. Under Mexican law, only permanent residents of the country can be witnesses.

Good Shaking Needed Before Spray Painting

"Shake well before using" is the advice of manufacturers to those preparing to do a job of spray-painting with one of the products that now are available in aerosol cans.

A good shaking is necessary because the paint, enamel or lacquer and the liquefied gas which forces it out of the can often tend to separate during periods of storage.

When that happens, the container, if unshaken, may deliver the paint or enamel in a stream like toothpaste squeezed from a tube, resulting either in a dribble or quick clogging of the valve.

Shaking the container well before use disperses the liquefied gas evenly through the paint so that when the valve is opened a combination of the paint and the propellent leaves the opening changed from a liquid to a gas. It expands about 240 times and literally "blasts" the paint into the fine particles required for smooth and even spraying.

Some manufacturers seal a metal, porcelain or glass marble inside the aerosol can to facilitate the mixing of the paint and the propellent. However, it's a good idea to give the can a few extra shakes even after you hear the marble striking the metal sides of the container.

When you've finished the job at hand, invert the can and press the valve for a second or two. This will eject pure gas through the valve, cleaning out any paint or enamel which might dry out in storage and clog the fine valve opening.

Irregular Surplus

Aerosol paint or enamel is used to best advantage on small, irregular surfaces that are difficult to paint with a brush or roller. Wrought-iron garden furniture and small models are good examples. The aerosol method of application, however, is not economical on large, flat surfaces where a brush or roller works easily.

Another thing to remember is to guard against drifting of the paint spray onto articles you don't want painted. The gas breaks up the paint into such fine particles that even gentle currents of air can carry some of them quite a distance, finally dropping them on highly polished surfaces or walls, even in another room.

The wisest course is to use aerosol paints outdoors or else "hood" the article being painted with newspapers so that excess paint will be caught before air currents have a chance to pick it up.

Flexible Setup

Flexibility of storage arrangements is an outstanding characteristic of the latest kitchen cabinets. In many of the new models, shelves, drawers and trays are adjustable at different heights, so that storage arrangements can be changed as the need arises. Corner space in both base and overhead cabinets, which formerly went to waste, has been reclaimed by revolving lazy susan shelves.

Monogram Foyer

You can give a custom look to your foyer by planning a rubber tile floor with your own monogram as a center of interest. Resilient rubber is easy to cut into decorative shapes with an ordinary rubber flooring knife, an ideal choice for do-it-yourself fans. Rubber is a trouble-free choice for foyer flooring. It's easy to keep it sparkling just by an occasional once-over with a damp mop.

Preserving Hardware

To preserve expensive household hardware—doorknobs and knockers, switch plates, provincial drawer handles and the like—from tarnish and unsightly fingerprints, paint them with a thin coat of pure, white, shellac. Hardware treated in this manner will stay shiny and attractive and will be easy to dust and keep clean.

Correct Lighting

It doesn't make any difference whether light comes over your right or left shoulder when reading. For writing or sewing, however, the light should be at the left for a right-handed person and at the right for a left-handed person. This will avoid creating a shadow with the hand that's writing.

Mildew-Killer

A good solution for killing mildew on paint is made by adding 6 ounces of trisodium phosphate to 10 gallons of water and then pouring in ½ pint of household ammonia. After this has been scrubbed over the surface, flush with plenty of clean water.

New Wall Tile

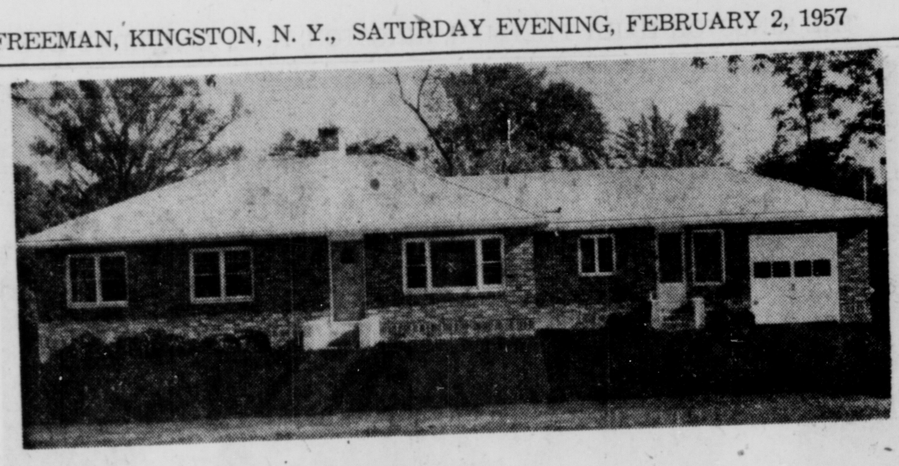

A new wall tile has been developed with ceramic coating on a steel base. It is lightweight and guaranteed against crazing, cracking or color fading. The manufacturer expects to market for less than clay tile and says it can be installed faster.

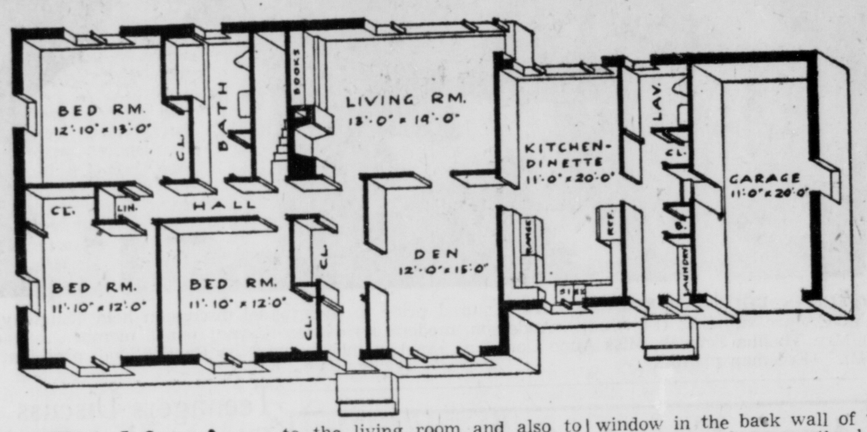

Use Exterior Plywood

When you use plywood around the house where it may be exposed to moisture such as for a kitchen sink countertop, best play safe and use exterior type plywood which won't be bothered by a little moisture now and then.

Glass-Cutter Care

Never toss a glass cutter in with other metal tools for the cutting wheel will become dulled which ruins the cutter. Best to store the cutter in a box by itself.

The 'Brickface' . . .

A One-Story House With A Different Look

Rooms	Six
Bedrooms	Three
Closets	Seven
Cubage:
House	34,800 ft.
Garage	3,200 ft.
Dimensions	75' x 30'

Called the "Brickface," today's Home of the Week will have an especially strong appeal for the many families who prefer the conveniences of a one story house, yet, who wants a home with a somewhat "different" appearance.

Since brick is an ideal exterior finish for this house, it is aptly named the "Brickface." White trim around the doors and windows brings lightness and decorative appeal to the outside of the house. The hip roof used on the main section of the house gives this home a distinctive appearance. Adding to the "different" appearance of this design is the way in which the garage and that part of the house containing the kitchen-dinette, lavatory and laundry are placed somewhat back from the front line of the main part of the house.

The front door opens on an entry hall which contains an unusually large coat closet. This hall leads directly to the den, to the living room and also to a central hall connecting with the bedrooms and bath. By means of the hallways and careful placing of the doors, easy room access is assured throughout the house.

In keeping with one of the latest trends in modern home planning . . . and also to meet the demand from prospective builders . . . all of the bedrooms are placed in the left wing of the house. Each bedroom features excellent light and ventilation as well as ample storage facilities.

The bath is conveniently near to the bedrooms. Also near at hand is the spacious linen closet which opens on the central hallway.

Located in the back of the house, the living room has a beautiful large picture window in its back wall. When you build this house be sure to pick a site that will afford a scenic "picture" for this window. There is a large fireplace in the living room; bookshelves are suggested for the left wall from the fireplace to the rear wall.

The room that is designated as a den in the plan can also be used as a dining room if you desire. Since the room opens off kitchen it is in an ideal location if you want to use it as a dining area. However, if you prefer to have it as a den you'll find that the dinette . . . which is actually the rear section of the kitchen . . . will do very nicely as a dining room.

Since there is a large picture window in the back wall of the dinette, you also reap the benefits of a good view in this room. The kitchen proper is well planned with cabinets, cupboards and counters in the popular U-shaped arrangement. Double windows above the sink help to make the kitchen a more cheerful spot.

Located on the ground floor, the laundry is reached from the kitchen by means of a hallway that leads as well to the lavatory, and to a door providing protected entrance to the garage. A broom closet and a general purpose closet also opens off this hallway. A side door leads directly from the yard to the laundry.

The heating plant should be installed under the living room in the basement of the house. The remaining basement area can be made into a recreation room, workshop, etc. Measuring 75' by 30' this house can be built on a 100' lot.

This design is approved by the VA and FHA. Complete blueprints and specifications of the "Brickface" are available with a money-back guarantee if for any reason the builder decides not to proceed with building plans.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. Address requests (mentioning name of home) to Home of the Week, Inc., Dept. KF, 87 Weybosset street, Providence, R. I.

Flush Door Ideal As Surface for Buffet Table

The single door is a handy item for do-it-yourself projects. It has proved successful as a surface for buffet table, coffee and utility table.

Even old doors are covered with plastic coated tension type laminate, available in some 25 popular colors or wood-grain finishes to lend an added incentive to creative homemakers.

How to go about it?

The experts (who make everything sound so simple) say to take your surface covering, and wood or wrought iron legs (they suggest 28 inches for a buffet height) to start. Then equip yourself with 1¼ inch wooden corner moldings and tools—hammer, nails, cross-cut saw, miter box, screwdriver, pliers, file and drill. Mastic is required to cement the new surface to the door.

If an old door is used, all hardware should be removed from the door, and the door is cut to the desired size. Then cut the laminate so that it will fit flush over the door. The legs are placed over each corner of the door, the screw hole is marked with a pencil. The legs are attached to the door with flat head screws.

The table described here used a surface of 1/10 inch decorative laminate. Mastic was spread over the entire surface first, then the material was carefully placed over the door. The material comes to you curved so that it may be easily smoothed flat on any sound surface. Cut the molding strips in a miter box to get a good corner fit.

File all sharp corners down after the molding is nailed on. The slightly exposed edge of the old door should be painted and molding shellacked. After the second coat is applied the table should be finished.

How to Drive Nails

A nail will have greater holding power if driven down with light blows of the hammer rather than with heavy blows. Seems that heavy blows cause the point of the nail to break the wood fibers while with light blows the nail just bends the wood fibers out of its way.

Closets Get Attention

Next to kitchens, closets receive the most attention when people are shopping for homes. For this reason, builders and people who are remodeling older homes are giving more attention to good closet design than ever before. Accessories, such as tie and shoe racks, as well as sufficient shelf space, are features which attract the eye of every house hunter. Properly placed in a closet, they utilize space which ordinarily would be wasted. House hunters recognize this and value the accessories at far more than their initial cost.

Hint Given on Sealing

To prevent the raw plaster in patched cracks or holes from absorbing paint and leaving a dull spot, size the area with 4 or 5-pound cut shellac and allow the spot to dry about twelve hours before painting. The shellac will effectively seal the porous patch.

Hanging Cabinets

It's a lot easier and less work to hang heavy objects such as cabinets, shelves and mirrors to a wall if you first build a rough base that will stand on the floor and hold the object at the correct height against the wall. This will free your hands for final positioning and attaching.

When Radiator Pounds

Steam radiators will often pound if the valve is not turned either all the way open or all the way close. Check the valve to make sure that it is turned as far as it will go.

Storing Tools

A good way to store tools in a damp location so they won't rust is to give them a thin coat of oil and then wrap them in aluminum foil.

Narrow Lot Has Its Advantages

Here are some of the advantages of a narrow lot:

It often is conveniently located in an established residential neighborhood, rather than in outlying, remote areas.

It calls for less expensive landscaping, gardening and lawn care.

It usually involves a lower annual tax outlay when utilities in its built-up area are installed and paid for and the need for new schools and highways are not as great as in new communities.

It may offer advantages of walk-to-work, walk-to-school, Walk-to-stores and walk-to-church.

It may mean that friends and relatives are nearby, instead of miles away.

But check your local zoning regulations for business encroachment and for the distance you must build from your boundary line.

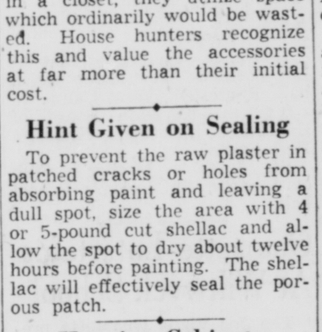

Wood for Beauty

Many leading architects are partial to wood, such as oak flooring, wood windows and wood wall paneling for homes today. One prominent architect points out, for example, that "wood gives an elegant sense to life" because of its inherent beauty. He adds that it is one of the most durable of building materials.

350 Homes Being Built at East End of New Span

As the Kingston - Rhinecliff Bridge opened today a firm of builders and developers pointed to a 350-home community being built in Red Hook near the eastern end of the span.

Kaymarland, Inc., gave details of a long-range plan for College Park at Linden avenue and Whaleback road, formerly 200 acres of virgin farmland.

Ralph Pinner, retained as planner and land engineer by the concern, said "before a shovelful of earth could be turned, we spent many months in research and engineering to achieve our plan for a completely self-contained community."

Mr. Pinner, formerly a chief of land planning for the Federal Housing Administration, said one of the chief problems was retaining the rural atmosphere and residential character of College Park and still include within the property a large shopping center, an extensive recreation area, a swimming pool and provision for a school and churches.

The school site has been planned, Mr. Pinner said, so as to form a buffer between the shopping area and nearby homes.

Similarly, College Park's own water plant will be attractively landscaped with a natural screen of trees and shrubs.

Each plot has been designed with an eye to the beauty and harmony of the landscaping throughout the community, Mr. Pinner said.

Frank S. Brown

Frank S. Brown, 83, former resident of Kingston, died Friday night in Catskill after a short illness. He was born in Conesville May 14, 1873, the son of David and Andrewetta Bortle Brown. Mr. Brown spent his youth at Durham where he was raised by Dr. and Mrs. Conkling. When ill health forced him to leave Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, where he was studying medicine, he became a salesman. For many years he lived in Kingston and was employed by Everett and Treadwell. He and his wife, the former Edna E. DeHart, moved from Kingston to Catskill in 1951. Surviving in addition to his wife are a son, David P. Brown, DDM, Catskill dentist; a daughter, Mrs. Emila Mc Entee of Catskill; also, three grandchildren, three nieces and a nephew. Mr. Brown was a member of Mt. Zion F & AM Lodge 311 of Troy; United Commercial Travelers of America, Kingston and Rondout Presbyterian Church, Kingston. Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p. m. from Millspaugh Funeral Home, 257 Main street, Catskill. The Rev. Clement E. Brown, pastor of Corning Methodist Church, Corning will officiate. Burial will be in Jefferson Rural Cemetery, Catskill. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday after 2 p. m. and after 7 p. m.

Nurse Corps Officers Requirements Revised

Qualification requirements for Nurse Corps Officers, U. S. Navy have undergone recent revision.

These revisions make it possible for a registered nurse, 21-40 years of age to be appointed in the rank of Ensign without having had any graduate experience. Also, a registered nurse, 21-40 years of age with three years of graduate professional experience may qualify for appointment in the rank of Lieutenant Junior Grade.

If she has a baccalaureate degree or is a registered anaesthetist, only two years of graduate professional experience is required for appointment as a Lieutenant Junior Grade.

Degree Required

For appointment as Lieutenant Senior Grade, the registered nurse must be 21-40 years of age and have a baccalaureate degree and six years of graduate professional experience, or a masters degree and five years of graduate experience. In addition to being a registered nurse, if she is a registered anaesthetist six years of graduate professional experience is required for appointment to the rank of Lieutenant Senior Grade. For further information interested parties may contact the U. S. Navy Recruiting Branch Station, Post Office building, room 209.

20 Killed . . .

the air tragedy.

Hoover, according to Deputy Commissioner Walter Arm, offered the federal agency's assistance in a telephone call to Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy. Arm said Kennedy promptly accepted the offer.

FBI Joins Hunt

The FBI thus joins six other separate investigations underway.

Angel Gorbea, confined in the penitentiary on the tiny island, gave a vivid account of the resounding crash of the four-engine passenger plane.

Two explosions, the second louder than the first, announced the crash, Gorbea said. Watching from his vantage point in a prison window, Gorbea related this scene:

". . . The whole sky, even through the snow, was lighted. We (the prisoners) stood at the windows. We saw people tumbling out of that ship—they were all lighted, too, by the flames. We saw them and their shadows. We saw them stumble.

"We saw some fall, we saw some just jump out, land on their hands and knees and then get up and run. They beat at themselves because maybe their clothes were burning. Some just ran a few feet from the plane and rolled in the snow, as if they were trying to smother the fire on their clothes."

Caught Child in Air

Six children were aboard and at least one died. One survivor told of kicking a hole in the fuselage to escape. He turned toward the plane for a second and found himself in the path of a child thrown at him. He caught it and ran to safety.

A prison trusty told of retrieving a mother and her 18-months-old infant from foot-deep snow that covered the crash scene, a field used by the prison to raise garden vegetables.

Delayed by Weather

Near-blizzard conditions prevented the plane from taking off for three hours and 15 minutes. At one point, the plane was towed back into a hangar. There, workmen doused the wings with alcohol to clear it of ice and snow.

Rolled back on the runway, it received clearance at 6 p. m. (EST).

At the controls was Capt. Alva V. Marsh, 49, a veteran of 19 years with the airline.

He pointed the airliner down runway 4 and headed toward the sky. Marsh said the plane was off the ground for about a minute when it started to flatten. He fought for altitude vainly.

Suddenly it heeled over sharply on its left side and plummeted earthward. Marsh and his copilot, George Basil Dixwell of Stratham, N. H., said they thought their plane struck a pole on Rikers Island.

Northeast recently leased the plane from the Flying Tigers Line, a cargo carrier, to inaugurate flight service to Miami. The airline began flying the Florida route only last Dec. 27 after it won government approval of the service extension over the opposition of rival airlines.

Wing Torn Off

The impact of the crash tore off the plane's left wing and knocked its outboard engine from its mounting. It crunched into the ground, ripping off the left side of the aircraft, and burst into flames and heavy smoke.

Cause of the crash is the object of a six-pronged investigation: By the city police and fire departments, the Bronx district attorney's office, in whose domain Rikers Island lies, the Civil Aeronautics Board, Civil Aeronautics Administration and the airline.

Gordon R. Matthews, assistant chief of the Bureau of Safety Investigation of the Federal Agency, headed a team of investigators who flew to the scene from Washington.

Another group of investigators, headed by Eugene Searle, made a four-hour survey of the wreckage scene. The investigation is to resume today.

Not Overloaded

Government sources said the plane was not overloaded according to the number of passengers. Such type planes have been allowed aloft with 100 persons aboard.

The crash might have turned into a far greater tragedy if the faltering airplane had veered in almost any direction other than it did.

It hit one of the few sparsely settled sections of Rikers Island, narrowly missing a row of five wings of the penitentiary itself. A bit shorter and it would have dropped into the river. A bit longer and it would have smashed into the heavily populated Bronx borough of homes and apartment buildings.

The island rests northwest of LaGuardia Field, which just into the river on the Flushing peninsula. The island's inaccessibility hampered rescue operations.

For Jobless

AFL-CIO to Seek U. S. Guarantee on Two-Thirds Pay

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP) — The AFL-CIO today set its sights on a federal guarantee of two-thirds normal pay for a worker when unemployed — a plan already in effect in some private industries.

A police statement adopted by the AFL-CIO Executive Council at its winter meetings here urged Congress to require states to provide unemployment compensation (UC) benefits amounting to "at least 65 per cent" of a worker's past fulltime earnings.

Would Average $55

The proposed maximum benefit would be limited to two-thirds of workers' average weekly earnings. This average is now about $80 a week. The plan thus proposes weekly unemployment benefits of about $55 compared with payments now averaging about $30.

Under Supplemental Unemployment Benefit (SUB) plans already negotiated by unions with the auto, steel and other industries, employers augment state UC jobless payments to a maximum of 65 per cent of a worker's normal take-home pay when he is employed.

The system operates under state laws but the AFL-CIO proposal is to require the new, higher level of benefit payments as a federal standard. The labor group also proposed extending to 39 weeks the period state benefits are payable.

Called Inadequate

In its policy statement yesterday the council said state unemployment insurance laws "continue to be woefully inadequate." The statement was drafted by a committee headed by President Walter Reuther of the auto workers union.

In Hero Roles

Lauds Prisoners For Rescue Work At Crash Scene

New York, Feb. 2 (AP) — Some 50 prisoners of Rikers Island penitentiary found themselves in the roles of heroes last night following the crash of the Northeast Airlines plane.

"They were wonderful," said one of the surviving passengers, Edward J. Bresner of Bayside, Queens. Bresner was pulled out of the burning plane by a prisoner. Another rushed him to the island hospital.

Helped Move Injured

Angel Gorbea, 27, a prisoner, said he heard two explosions and saw the plane in flames. "Being one of the trusties," he said "me and others were released and we helped move the injured."

Another prisoner, Harris Focer, 20, said he was writing a letter to his wife when he heard the crash.

"I asked to go out to help," he said. "They let me go."

When he got to the scene, Focer said, "People were still coming out of the plane. They all seemed to be choking. They told me that many more would have gotten out if it hadn't been for the fumes."

In Nurse Rolls

When the injured were brought into the prison hospital, many inmates volunteered as nurses' aides.

The inmates of Rikers Island prison—some 600 of them—are not felons but are there because they committed misdemeanors—so-called petty felonies. They must serve out indeterminate sentences up to three years.

Questions - - Answers

Q—By whom was the profile in the White Mountains at Franconia, New Hampshire, carved?

A—It was carved by nature and not by man. The "Old Man," also called the Great Stone Face, is formed on the side of a mountain by five separate ledges, the planes of which create the most noted of natural profiles.

Q—Was Julius Caesar a Roman emporer?

A—No, the empire was founded after his death. Caesar's grandnephew Octavianus became the first emporer of Rome, under the name of Augustus.

Tugboat Strike Mediation Off Until Monday

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Mediation talks have been suspended until Monday in the two-day-old tugboat strike, with authorities anxiously eyeing the city's fuel oil supplies.

Three federal and one city mediator conferred in vain yesterday, with representatives of Local 333, United Marine Division of the National Maritime Union, and the Marine Towing and Transportation Employers Assn.

No Apparent Gain

All parties recessed for the weekend with no progress apparent.

Some 4,000 tugboat men struck New York harbor at midnight Thursday. The walkout spread yesterday to a few scattered small ports along the east and gulf coasts. However, none of the other big ports has been hit.

The tugs, in addition to maneuvering ships in the harbor, bring to the city most of its fuel oil and coal.

Rationing Possible

A week's supply of fuel oil was said to be on hand, but Mayor Robert F. Wagner has urged the industry to set up a voluntary rationing plan in event the situation becomes critical.

The city yesterday eased its regulations on trucking oil into Manhattan.

A 13-day tugboat strike in 1946 resulted in the dimming of street lights and the closing of some amusement and business places.

A 10-day walkout in 1953 was not felt as severely.

Mike, Key Club Begins Plans for Lions Show Booth

The Ulster County Mike and Key Club, Inc., is beginning to plan for the 1957 Lions Club exposition, it was announced today by Lowell Popp, K2EST, president of the local amateur radio club.

A committee of four, consisting of Mr. Popp, Dr. Stephen McGrath, K2VLN, William Smith, K6QFE, and John Heitzman, W2YOK, has already examined the site for possible antenna locations. The Exposition, as in the past, will be held in the state armory building on Manor avenue April 2-8.

It is planned to have a booth that will not only be attractive and interesting, Mr. Popp said, but will be able to demonstrate to the public the "great work that amateur radio has done for the world through its electronic achievements, for the country through its civil defense work, for the community through its many civic assistance projects and for individuals through its message-handling facilities."

This will be the first public demonstration for the club since it was incorporated in December 1956, through the assistance of District Attorney Howard C. St. John. Organized in December, 1953, by a handful of local amateurs, the society now boasts more than 40 members, of whom more than 90 per cent hold licenses.

14th Fire Victim

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 2 (AP)—Mrs. Anna Jones, 57, of New Haven, today became the 14th victim of a fire in a four-story loft building Jan. 24. Fire officials believe the fire started in some paper cartons on the first floor, but they don't know how. There were 112 employes in the building, mostly women. Nine died in the fire. Of the 33 injured, five, including Mrs. Jones, have succumbed to burns. Two others are still listed as critical at hospitals.

Phone Company Changes

ELSIE OSTRANDER

ISABELLE SCHOONMAKER

Miss Elsie Ostrander, who has been chief operator in Hudson since May 1955, succeeds Mrs. Isabelle Schoonmaker as chief operator of toll in Kingston, it has been announced by Richard Speidel, traffic superintendent here.

Miss Ostrander in her new position is responsible for the handling of all long distance calls. She is a 14-year veteran in the telephone business having started in Newburgh as an operator.

Mrs. Schoonmaker, who has been chief operator in Kingston since 1950 remains here as chief operator in charge of local calls replacing Miss Florence Bogovich, now chief operator at Glens Falls.

Miss Bogovich started to work for the company in Kingston as an operator in 1941. She became a service assistant in 1946 and in 1951 became assistant chief operator in Newburgh. She returned to Kingston the same year as assistant chief operator and in 1954 became chief operator, local. She resides at Richmond Park, Kingston, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Bogovich.

Poughkeepsie Downs High School, 56-47, for 8th DUSO Win

Pioneers Guard First Place Lead

Grimaldi Scores 22 In Losing Cause

Poughkeepsie High captured its eighth DUSO League game in nine outings with a 56-47 victory over Kingston High last night before 1200 fans at the Pioneers new Forbus street building gym.

The home club led just about all the way as they protected their 1½ game lead over Newburgh Free Academy and Port Jervis. Tuesday, Poughkeepsie faces a stiff test when it takes on the Goldbacks at home in a return engagement. Newburgh holds the only decision over Sam J. Kalloch's crew this season.

Grimaldi High

Tony Grimaldi got back on the scoring beam for the locals after being held to 10 points in his last start. The jump-shooting center meshed 22 points for individual honors on the night.

Poughkeepsie was paced by Lee J. Nelson, who had 21. Alan Smith, who was promoted to first string just last Tuesday after the graduation of regular center Ronnie Jones, came through with 19 and excelled on defense.

Bob Smith had 10 for the Maroons before twisting an ankle with about three minutes left in the game. 'Smitty' had to be helped from the court, but according to Coach Jack Gilligan's report this morning, will be ready for at least part-time duty Tuesday when KHS hosts Fallsburgh.

Sluggish First Half

After a sluggish first half in which the Pioneers were on top 21-16, the scoring picked up. Poughkeepsie poured through 17 points to 16 for Kingston in the third period to make the count 39-32. In the final session, the winners counted another 17 to coast in.

Kingston made 20 of 58 shots from the floor for a 34 per cent plus average. Its best period was the third when it hit on 7 of 16 shots for 44 per cent.

The loss was the sixth in DUSO play for the locals against three wins. Against all opponents, the record is 4-7.

Short, Kelly Set Pace

Maroon Jayvees Romp To 5th Straight, 54-38

Bob Short and John Kelly, Kingston High's double-barreled scoring combination, paced the Maroon junior varsity to their ninth win in 11 starts, a 54-38 victory over Poughkeepsie last night.

Short canned 17 and Kelly 12 as Coach Bill Hurley's club ran their winning streak to five straight—longest of the season. The previous high was four and that was broken by Newburgh's unbeaten squad.

Kelly and Short are both freshmen and are leading candidates for berths on next year's varsity squad. Short amassed his points on 8 baskets and 1 free throw while Kelly hit for 5 buckets and 2 charity tosses.

Kingston was on top all the way. It held quarterly leads of 15-9, 23-18 and 39-31.

Bob Boschen topped the Poughkeepsie team with a dozen points.

Monties Bow

Liberty Wins In Overtime

Liberty Central snapped a four-game losing streak by edging Monticello, 58-54, in an overtime thriller on the Monties' floor last night.

The game ended in regulation time tied at 48-all. In the extra session, the Redskins outscored the surprisingly stubborn home club, 10-6, to gain their fifth win as compared to four losses in the DUSO League.

Lawrence High

Johnny Lawrence, Liberty's little package of dynamite, topped both sides in scoring with 18 points. Curt Benton contributed 16.

Monticello, which is 1-8, went all the way with five players. Art Glick and Ace Phillips tied for scoring honors with 13 each. Alvin Schneider hit 12 and Dick Stratton 11. John Anthony made 5 to complete the scoring.

Liberty's jayvees won a squeaker, 38-37, in the first game as John Gerow pitched in 14. Rusty Machson was high for the game with 17 for the Monties.

Williams Denies Marriage Report

New York, Feb. 2 (AP) — Model Nelva More has fired some verbal fastballs at baseball slugger Ted Williams, who vigorously denied reports of their impending marriage.

Miss More's stepmother, Mrs. Fran More, said Thursday that 24-year-old Nelva and 38-year-old Ted would marry "in a day or two."

Nelva, beyond saying she and the diamond star would be married, refused to discuss details.

Yesterday in Boston, Williams—arriving by plane from Miami—told newsmen: "Nothing to it, nothing to it," adding:

You know I've been initiated into that society once before. You've heard that phrase h-a-d i-t. Well, that's me."

Williams' previous marriage ended in divorce.

NFA Raps Middies

Newburgh Free Academy moved into a deadlock for second place in the DUSO League with a 55-46 victory over Middletown last night at the NFA gym.

It was the Goldbacks sixth win against two losses and tied them with idle Port Jervis. The Middies fell below the .500 mark as they dropped their fifth game in nine outings.

Currey, Chick Star

John M. Currey and Jim Chick, a pair of lads who were substitutes until a couple of week ago, paced the winners with 13 and 12 points, respectively. High-scoring Al Beccaccio was held down to 9.

Bill Marx tabbed 18 and Jim Merritt, who scored 36 against Kingston High School in his last start, added 16.

The game was nip-an-tuck most of the way, but Newburgh drew away to win in the last period. The Middies chances were hurt in the final period when Marx and regular guard Tom Diana fouled out.

Jayvees Still Unbeaten

NFA's unbeaten jayvee team captured their 10th straight, 84-53. Frank Steinard sparked the victory with 18 points while Gene Lawrence and Jack Coonan each made 14.

Jeff Rosen was high scorer for the Middie juniors with 18. Don Springstead and John Barber chipped in with 10 each.

Teachers Top Danbury, 73-58

New Paltz Teachers completed a two-game road trip into New England on a successful note last night by downing Danbury (Conn.) Teachers, 73-58.

The victory gave the Hawks an even split in the short road junket and gained them their second win this season over the Nutmeggers. Thursday, Waterbury (Conn.) Teachers tripped New Paltz, 82-66.

Four men played prominent roles in the win which balanced the Hawks season's mark at 4-4. Jack Hussnatter was the top point-maker with 22 points and was followed by Sol Goldin (16), Frank Buckley (15) and Milo Dalby (12).

Hawks Outclass Foes

The Hawks outclassed Waterbury all the way. They zoomed to a 35-23 halftime lead and coasted in the rest of the way.

Topping the scoring for the losers was Ted Bender with 16 followed by Ted Smigala, who had 13.

New Paltz plays two games next week. Friday it travels to Albany to face the strong Albany State Teachers and returns home Saturday to host Drew University of Madison, N. J.

Twyman Stars

Royals Halt Losing Skein

Cincinnati, Feb. 2 (AP)—Jack Twyman came home to the scene of his college triumphs and prodigies last night, and with plenty of crowd encouragement helped Rochester's Royals pull a National Basketball Assn. upset.

Twyman, who rewrote a dozen records in his University of Cincinnati playing days, pumped in 23 points in the Royals' 96-80 win over Fort Wayne's Pistons—first win in a dozen games for Rochester.

A crowd of 6,335 plainly was partial to Rochester. The fans also came to see the Royal's Dave Piontek, who set plenty of records himself when playing for Xavier University here.

The professional basketball game was a trial, arranged by a Cincinnati syndicate that seeks to bring an NBA franchise here, and wanted to see how a pro game would draw.

The possibility of a Royals shift was remote. Rochester general manager Les Harrison said the Royals have no plans for moving, and the Cincinnati group said it plans to start a new franchise.

The win gave the Royals a tie with Minneapolis for third place in the tight NBA Western Division.

Ulster LL Sets Farm System

Town of Ulster Little League has received permission from the Chambers school Board of Education to use part of the playground system for a baseball diamond for the league's minor league farm system.

Plans to promote the farm system, first of its kind in the area, will be announced later.

Classes in Youth Leadership are being held at the Chambers school every Wednesday from 7 to 9 p. m. Ron McCrindle of the Chambers faculty is the instructor.

Coaches and managers of the the Ulster Little League are attending sessions which pertain to baseball and the supervision of boys. Pictures and instruction and interpretation of the rules of baseball will be covered. Classes are open to anyone interested in this type of leadership.

Italians Lead In 2-Man Bobsled

St. Moritz, Switzerland, Feb. 2 (AP)—Italy's Eugenio Monti and Renzo Alvera took the lead at the end of the first heat in the world two-man bobsled championships today.

The dare-devil Italians, favorites for the title, went down the one-mile (1609 meters), nine-curve St. Moritz course in 01:19.45—a time clocked toward the end of the first heat when most riders said they thought the track was getting slower.

The Marquis Alfonso De Portage and Luis Munoz of Spain were second with 01:19.80 and the United States first team of Arthur Tyler, Rochester, N. Y., and Tom Butler, Saranac Lake, N. Y., were third in 01:20.19.

Another run will be made today. Then follow two more tomorrow with the best aggregate time winning the title.

Rosewall Beats Trabert

Sydney, Australia, Feb. 2 (AP)—Ken Rosewall beat his old Davis Cup rival Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4 in the first round of a professional tennis tournament that opened at Sydney's White City Stadium today. Eight pros are playing in the tournament, being run by Jack Kramer, for first prize of $4,500.

Carlton Rintz won nine Big Ten gymnastic titles in three seasons for Michigan State.

Moylan to Defend Florida Net Title

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP)—Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J., returns to action today in defense of his South Florida tennis title, meeting Armando Vieira of Sao Paulo, Brazil, in a semi-final match.

Moylan was idle yesterday while Vieria was defeating Jerry Moss of Miami 6-2, 6-1.

The other semi-final match pitted Australia's Don Candy against Giuseppi Merlo of Bologna, Italy.

The women's semi-finals matched Rosa Maria Reyes of Mexico City against Dorothy Knode of Forest Hills, N. Y., and Maria Bueno of Sao Paulo against Karol Fageros of Miami.

Downey Duo Leads Four-Ball Tourney

Hollywood, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP) — Mary Ann Downey and Marjorie Lindsay, two veterans of amateur golfing campaigns, are a rapidly paling darkhorse team contending for the title in the 12th women's international four-ball tournament.

They entered today's semi-finals after pulling the upset of the tourney—a 3 and 2 victory over the favored duo of Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., U. S. and Canadian amateur champion, and Cookie Swift Berger of Buffalo, N. Y., a former co-winner here.

Miss Downey, of Baltimore, and Miss Lindsay, of Decatur, Ill., drew another team of upsetters—Maureen Riley of McKeesport, Pa., and Mary Pat Janssen of Charlottsville, Va.—in the semis. The Riley-Janssen team scored a 2-up victory over former national amateur queen Dot Kirby of Atlanta and Betty Probasco of Chattanooga, Tenn., in yesterday's second round.

The other semi-final match pitted Anne Quast of Marysville, Wash., and Ann Richardson of Columbus, Ohio, against Betty Kerby of Akron, Ohio, and Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass.

Ellenville Wins 72-45

Ellenville Central racked up its sixth DUSO League win in nine starts by walloping winless Fallsburgh Central, 72-45, last night at Fallsburgh.

Mike Tannenbaum pitched in 22 points to lead Coach Chuck Walsh's Blue Devils. Jim Reed canned 12 as all 12 players on the squad got a shot at performing.

Dick Wilson tossed in 14 for the Comets who have now dropped nine games in the loop.

Ellenville's jayvee team won, 59-46, as Matt Dubiner hit 15 and Sam Painter 14. Herb Gold made 13, Skip Carnesi 11 and Harold Kline 10 for Fallsburgh.

Marusic Paces Phoenix Open

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 2 (AP)—Milon Marusic is a professional golfer unused to the spotlight which dwelt on him today.

For most of his many years as a pro he has concentrated on the problems of country club members as a resident club teacher.

But today he was the top man going into the third round of the $15,000 Phoenix Open tournament at the Arizona country club.

Marusic, 40, tall, slender and friendly, has never won a major tournament.

His 4-under par 66 yesterday, coupled with a 69 in the first round, gave him a score of 135, five under for the distance, and a precarious one-stroke lead over his nearest challengers.

Marusic, of Czechoslavakia extraction, is on a winter holiday from his club at Webster Groves in the suburbs of St. Louis.

Deadlocked at 136 teeing off this morning were five players. They were Gene Littler of San Diego, ex-amateur champion and now a pro, Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., Don January, Lampasas, Tex., North Dakota's Paul O'Leary from Bismarck and Al Balding of Erindale, Canadian PGA champion.

Deacons on Spree

Wake Forest Top Threat To North Carolina Five

(By The Associated Press)

Looks as if those North Carolina Tar Heels might get some competition yet before the Atlantic Coast Conference season—or post season—is over.

Conference whippings in their second and third games, way back in December, probably cost Wake Forest any chance for the regular season ACC title. But the league picks its delegate to the NCAA tournament in post-season tourney and by that time the Deacons might take a good deal of handling.

They're rolling now, having raised their current streak to seven in a row and 14 of their last 15 with an 81-70 whipping of Clemson last night. It was their fifth straight conference victory. Moving them into second place tie with Duke, each 5-2, compared to North Carolina's 6-0 slate. The Tar Heels, top-ranked nationally, have eight league games left, Wake Forest seven.

Big Tests

The true test will come Feb. 13 and again Feb. 26 when Wake Forest comes face-to-face with the Tar Heels. In a previous meeting, in the final of the Dixie Classic Christmas tournament, North Carolina defeated the Deacons, 63-55, the only loss for Murray Greason's team since Maryland took a 59-53 decision back on Dec. 10.

Tulane defeated Mississippi, 66-65 to stay close to Kentucky and Auburn in the Southeastern Conference race, West Virginia routed St. John's of Brooklyn, 105-72, and fifth-ranked UCLA defeated Oregon State 59-37 to stretch its Pacific Coast Conference winning streak to 32.

Mississippi State Wins

Although Jim Ashmore, fourth highest big school scorer with a 29-point average, was held to 19, Mississippi State defeated Louisiana State, 81-72, in another SEC game and Tulsa won a Missouri Valley Conference test from Houston, 78-58. Virginia Military won its first Southern Conference game, 75-60 over Davidson, and the Citadel edged Presbyterian 65-63.

Stanford whipped Oregon 68-52 in another PCC game and Rhode Island nipped Colby 83-80.

Buffalo Wins

The University of Buffalo beat Rensselaer Poly 65-53 for its eighth victory in 12 starts. RPI now is 4-4.

Ed Baucum dumped in 29 points to lead Rochester Tech to a 77-60 conquest of Oneonta State for the Engineers 12th victory as against one loss.

Other scores involving upstate teams: Buffalo Teachers 74, Brockport Teachers 69, New Paltz Teachers 73, Danbury Teachers 58.

Red Wings Oppose Rangers in TV Game

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings lead the National Hockey League while the New York Rangers are in fifth place, but both teams will have a lot at stake in their nationally-televised game today.

The powerful Red Wings, paced as usual by veterans Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay, hold only a one point lead over Montreal's defending champion Canadiens in the battle for first place. The Rangers are involved in a fight with Toronto for fourth place—the winner of which will get the last berth in the post-season Stanley Cup playoffs. Toronto currently leads New York by one point.

Owners Meet Demands

Majors Get Whooping Benefit Pension Plan

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Major league baseball today has a benefit-packed pension plan described by officials as unequalled anywhere.

And having met player demands for increased benefits—which include a whopping 75 per cent boost in monthly pension checks—it wouldn't be surprising if the American and National Leagues shelved a request for a raise in minimum salaries during their joint winter meeting today.

The players have asked that the present $6,000 minimum be increased to $7,500.

The pros and cons of that controversy, however, were secondary to the sweeping advance in pension benefits unanimously approved by the owners of the 16 major league clubs in separate meetings yesterday.

The two leagues granted a minimum monthly pension of $88 and upped the maximum monthly check to $550. The new plan, awaiting a federal tax ruling before it goes into effect April 1, also includes a 50 per cent increase in insurance benefits and new disability and hospitalization benefits.

The retirement benefits are available to players, coaches and trainers with at least five years service, who contribute to the plan, at age 50. They also may postpone collection of the pension checks until age 60 or 65, with additional bonuses.

Here's the way the old and new benefit scales compare (at age 50):

Years of Service	New	Old
5	$88	$50
10	$175	$100
20	$275	$100

A 10-year man can collect $275 a month by waiting until he's 60 to draw his benefits, and $350 a month if he waits until he's 65.

A 20-year man can collect $450 at 60, or $550 at 65.

Only the first 10 years of major league service previously were considered in pension benefits, with no provision for a delay in collecting the monthly payments. Now a player receives $17.50 a month for each year in the majors up to 10, and $10 a month for each additional year up to 20.

The plan is retroactive to include those eligible under pension benefits originated in 1947.

New Bowlerama Opens Doors Today

John Ferraro's Bowlerama on the By-Pass, featuring the automatic pinspotters, will be open for the first time starting today (Saturday).

Ferraro announced this morning that 12 alleys will be open for keglers. He added that his Bowlodrome on Cornell street will be closed to give workmen an opportunity to move equipment.

He's Not Immune To Ref's Whistle

New York — (NEA) — Tony Carpio, who is the top scorer for little Queens College, still isn't used to being bothered by a referee's whistle blowing.

Carpio is the son of the legal adviser to the Philippine's United Nations delegation. Because of this, he enjoys diplomatic immunity wherever he goes—except on a basketball court.

Logart Beats Bahama in 10

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—Isaac Logart, a Cuban with a burning desire to wear the welterweight title robes once worn by his fellow countryman, Kid Gavilan, has sped past another opponent.

Last night it was Yama Bahama, a 153-pounder from Bimini in the Bahamas who is neither a full fledged welter nor middleweight. The decision for Logart was unanimous at Madison Square Garden after 10 rounds.

Every ranked fighter who wins a bout wants the champion soon. Logart is no exception. But first he has some unfinished business with Gaspar Ortega, the Mexican who twice upset ex-champ Tony DeMarco.

Eddie Mafus, Logart's manager, still raves about the split decision his fighter lost to Ortega at Boston, Oct. 17. That victory for the Mexican and two straight over DeMarco have moved him up as fast in the 147-pound class.

When Ortega and DeMarco meet for the third time at Boston a week from tonight, Billy Brawn, the Garden matchmaker, will be on hand. He will try to pair the winner with Logart in March.

Logart, 147½, was called the winner by judge Artie Aidala 7-2-1, judge Harold Barnes 5-4-1 and referee Barney Felix 6-3-1. The AP card also had it for Logart 7-2-1.

Mister Gus, second in the 1956 Washington International at Laurel, finished fifth in the same race in 1955.

9 Pupils Still Critical After Schoolyard Crash

Van Nuys, Calif., Feb. 2 (AP)—Nine children remained in critical condition today in the aftermath of a collision-crippled airliner's flaming crash at Pacoima Junior High School. Seven persons died outright.

Albert Ballou, 13, had his left leg amputated after the crash Thursday. Evan Elsner, 12, lost his left leg, too, and suffered severe abdominal lacerations.

Others still critical:

John Sain, 15, third degree burns over most of his body.

Jack Bengston, 12, punctured left lung.

Raymond Lafinier, 12, fractured skull.

Albert Pardo, 12, fractured neck, jaw, left shoulder, concussion and second degree burns.

Richard Berger, 12, abdominal injuries.

Terry Brown, 12, head injuries.

Two Are Serious

Sixteen other boys are still hospitalized with lesser injuries, although two are considered in serious condition. The boys are in Sun Valley Emergency Hospital, Valley Hospital, San Fernando Hospital and Encino Hospital.

Still in St. Joseph Hospital, Burbank, is Curtiss A. Adams, 27, of Palmdale, the radar operator on the F89 jet which collided with the DC7B transport high above the San Fernando valley. He received burns before parachuting from the stricken jet.

Adams' pilot was killed, as were all four crewmen on the transport.

Israeli, UN Troops in First Clash

Cairo, Feb. 2 (AP)—Israeli and UN troops have exchanged shots near the Gaza Strip—the first reported clash between the two forces.

There were no casualties.

The incident came while the UN general assembly was trying once again to resolve the deadlock caused by Israel's refusal to give up its last footholds seized in the October-November invasion of Egypt. A new plan calling for an Israeli withdrawal and use of UN forces in the disputed areas was before a special weekend session of the assembly today.

Fire On Swedes

The official account of the clash from the UN information center in Cairo said a Swedish patrol of the UN emergency force (UNEF) challenged five Israeli soldiers pursuing a group of refugees from the Gaza Strip into UN-held Egyptian territory.

It said the Israelis opened fire on the Swedes with rifles and light machine guns, and that the Swedes fired back.

(In Jerusalem, an Israeli Army spokesman said the UN patrol fired first, after the Israelis mistakenly went about 300 yards into UN-occupied territory.

Covering Shots

(He said the Israeli soldiers fired a few shots to cover themselves while getting back to their territory.

(Israel offered official apologies to the UN commander. But at the same time, the spokesman said, the Israeli liaison officer with the UN forces expressed regret that the Swedish troops had opened fire "so hastily."

(Both sides agreed there were no casualties.)

West European Nations Approve Tariff Agreement

Brussels, Belgium, Feb. 2 (AP)—Representatives of six west European countries trying to establish a common market have agreed on a tariff policy toward other nations. They did not disclose details.

Delegates from France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg ended talks on this phase of the problem last night. They were trying to reach a compromise between a French demand for a high tariff on goods entering the common market from the outside and a Dutch demand for a low tariff, mainly on raw materials.

Everyone Is Satisfied

Belgium Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, a leader in the move to set up the common market and to form an atomic pool (Euratom), said "it seems now everyone is satisfied" with the tariff policy. Another delegate pointed out that the proposed solution is subject to approval by the foreign ministers of the six countries at a meeting Monday.

One major point still is unsettled. This is a French demand for inclusion of overseas territories in the common market. France wants the member countries to contribute to the social and economic development of these territories.

The delegates are trying to draft treaties on the common market and Euratom for submission to the foreign ministers.

Minstrel Rehearsal Sunday for CYO Boys

Catholic Youth Organization boys, sixth grade through high school, are urged to attend the first minstrel rehearsal Sunday at 2 p. m. in St. Joseph's School Hall.

Mrs. J. C. Troy, chairman of publicity for the show, said boys in the age brackets mentioned, will be welcomed at the rehearsal whether they have a specialty or not.

Flood Threatens Alabama Area; Other Toll 14

(By The Associated Press)

The dire threat of flood hung over North Alabama today while four other southern states began mop-up opreations in the wake of floods which caused many millions of dollars in damages.

The Warrior and Coosa rivers in Alabama continued to rise and were expected to crest above flood stage Monday.

A dry, cool air mass moved into Tennessee last night cutting off drenching rains which have fallen in the east and midstate areas for the past 13 days.

Begin to Recede

Flood waters in the upper east Tennessee area began to recede, but some sections of Chattanooga in the lower east section were still under water.

Repair crews and relief agencies were already moving into Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia to clean up the flood debris in those states.

Heavy rains during the past two weeks caused the floods which spread through the southeast. Thousands were forced from their homes.

Parts of Kentucky and West Virginia have been declared disaster areas by President Eisenhower.

To Tour Area

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, president of the National Red Cross, planned to inspect flood stricken areas of West Virginia, Virginia and Kentucky by plane today. He said a half million dollars have been allocated to these states for flood relief.

The Warrior river in Alabama is expected to crest seven feet above flood stage at Tuscaloosa.

The Tombigbee river is expected to crest four feet above flood stage at Columbus, Miss.

National Guardsmen at Huntsville, Ala., have been alerted in the event families have to be evacuated from the low lands along the Flint and Paint Rock rivers. Several highways in the area were inundated.

Snow Covers Jersey

Newark, N. J., Feb. 2 (AP)—A heavy blanket of snow covered New Jersey today disrupting land and air transportation and causing several highway accidents. Seven inches of snow were recorded at Newark Airport and highways throughout the state were reported slippery. Two sisters—one from Farmingdale, N. Y.—were killed in a collision of a car and trailer truck on the outer bridge between Perth Amboy and Staten Island, N. Y.

Low Bids on Paltz College Projects Amount to $47,500

Low bids amounting to $47,500 for work at New Paltz State Teachers College were opened Thursday at Albany by the New York State Department of Public Works, according to John W. Johnson, superintendent of Public Works.

Low bid for construction work at the college was $38,800, submitted by Construction Associates of Brooklyn. Only one bid was filed.

Newburgh Bidder

Weisblatt Electric Co., of Newburgh submitted a low bid of $8,700 for electric work at the college. Two bids were filed.

A total of 80 bids were received on the six projects for construction, repairs and alterations to State-owned facilities amounting to $760,762.55.

1,536 Airline Pilots to Strike

Chicago, Feb. 2 (AP)—A worldwide strike by 1,536 pilots for Pan American World Airways has been called for Feb. 8 by the Air Line Pilots Assn. in a dispute over a new contract.

The strike call for midnight (local time), announced yesterday by Clarence N. Sayen, president of ALPA, climaxed a contract dispute between the airline and pilots' union which has been in negotiation for six months.

To Notify Public

Sayen said the pilots "withdrawal from service" was being announced to the traveling public in 58 countries which PAA serves on all continents to "provide ample time for international travelers to receive warning and make plans accordingly."

The ALPA said principal issues in the dispute are increase in pay for pilots, rules and working conditions, particularly dealing with "excess time on duty and time away from home," and duration of the contract.

Sayen, in a statement, criticized the company for what he termed its "adamant position," saying it left "no alternative under the law, unless the pilots of PAA are willing to embrace deteriorating purchasing power and working conditions relative to other pilots and professional groups. This they will not do."

6 Ulster Youths Are Certified for Academy Exams

Six Ulster county youths, including Richard E. Strong of 118 Wilson avenue, this city, have been certified to take entrance examinations for U. S. service academies for the current year, Congressman J. Ernest Wharton has announced.

Mr. Strong was named as alternate to take the examination for entrance to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. Also named for this test were Murray H. Craft of Saugerties and Douglas Milo of Woodstock.

Jerome C. Mayone of Market street, Saugerties, was selected to take the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy entrance examinations in state-wide competition.

Chosen to participate in the U. S. Air Force Academy at Denver, Colo., examinations were Robert G. Bull of Marlboro, Murray H. Craft, Saugerties; Douglas Milo, Woodstock and Larry L. Stevens, Mt. Tremper.

The release from Congressman Wharton pointed out that no vacancies occurred at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point this year for the 29th Congressional District. However, an announcement will be made later as to the date of a preliminary Civil Service examination for the selection of candidates for the 1958 service academy vacancies.

Nazi General Dies

Viersen, Germany, Feb. 2 (AP)—Former German Field Marshal Friedrich Paulus, has died in Communist East Germany after a long illness, relatives here disclosed today. Paulus commanded the German 6th Army that was defeated in the battle of Stalingrad. The 66-year-old Paulus had lived in a secluded villa in Dresden since his return from Russian captivity in October 1953. His death, of undisclosed cause, occurred yesterday. Paulus' son, Ernest Alexander, lives in Viersen.

Red Scientist Dies

London, Feb. 2 (AP)—Moscow radio announced today the death of Mikhail A. Shatelen, 91, Soviet scientist and engineer. On Shatelen's 90th birthday, the presidium of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) gave him the title of Hero of Socialist Labor, the Order of Lenin and the Gold Medal of the Hammer and Sickle. His work in the electrification of the Soviet Union was cited.

Husband Feared Crash, Tried to Change Kin's Plan

New York, Feb. 2 (AP)—"Gary's clothes were on fire. I pushed him out through one of the holes, then I climbed out after him. I rolled him in the snow to put out the flames."

This is how a 22-year-old mother, with another baby on the way, said she reacted when a Northeast Airlines plane crashed and burned on Rikers Island last night.

Mrs. Sandra Selmonsky, of (229 Jerome street) Syosset, N. Y., and her 2-year-old son were reunited with her husband, Robert, in the Bronx. The survivors had been ferried from Rikers Island.

Reduced to Hysteria

Selmonsky, 27, had been reduced to hysteria in front of the Northeast Airlines ticket counter at La Guardia Field shortly after the Miami bound airliner crashed.

The stevedore burst into tears and screamed at ticket agents, "I begged, I pleaded with you to take my wife off that plane and you wouldn't do it . . . you wouldn't do it."

As he shrieked, a woman ticket agent broke into tears and fled into an adjoining crew room.

Reunited with his family before his wife and child were taken to Fordham Hospital for a complete checkup, Selmonsky was calmer but still insisting he had a premonition.

Would Not Leave

"I told her to get off," he said. "But she didn't want to. I was driving home, on the Grand Central Parkway, when I heard the crash and saw the flash. I knew what had happened."

Mrs. Selmonsky expects another child in two months.

As first survivors came off the ferry they presented a grim, heart-rending scene.

First off the ferry was a man, silent on a stretcher, his hands heavily bandaged.

Next came a woman carrying a small child. She was sobbing hysterically.

Carries Two Infants

There was an old man. He shuffled slowly and was supported on both sides by firemen. A blanket covered his face. It was glistening with oil — first aid for burns.

A sooty fireman was next. He carried an infant in the crook of each arm. The babies were swathed like coccoons in bandages and blankets.

Charles Naylor, a concert pianist, and his wife, Phyllis, of (69 Arbor street) Roslyn Heights, N. Y., wrapped in blankets and supporting each other, walked off the ferry together. They carried their children, two years old and six weeks old.

Worried About Hands

Mrs. Naylor, half dazed, asked a bystander:

"My husband. His hands. Are they all right? Will he be able to play again?"

Naylor, his face grayed by smoke, murmured:

"When the plane crashed, all that I remember was looking from the outside into the plane and through the flames I saw my wife. How I got out I don't know. I grabbed her and pulled her out."

At Lincoln Hospital, Sam Dubrovsky, 56, of Montreal, Canada, told his version of the crash.

He said he was sitting in the midsection of the plane and that, just after the take-off, he told a man seated beside him, "The right engine looks red and funny-looking."

"The motors always look like that when they take off," the man replied. He started to speak again, but before he could, there was a roar, Dubrovsky said.

Under Propellor

"I heard people yelling, 'Oh my God, what happened?' and then flames began shooting. I was able to crawl along the floor and went out a window. I found myself underneath a propellor which was still turning."

Dubrovsky added:

"People were screaming and shouting for help. I saw others crawl through the wreckage. Others climbed through windows. Some went back to help others, but the flames were so hot they couldn't get back into the plane.

Pro-Reds Only Candidates on Romania Ballot

Vienna, Feb. 2 (AP)—Romania, one of the most tightly controlled of the Soviet satellites, will elect a new parliament tomorrow. Only candidates of the Communist-controlled People's Democratic front appear on the ballot.

The Romanian News Agency said the candidates were named "by acclamation" at meetings held throughout the country up to 30 days before the election. They were described as party leaders, secretaries, and leaders among the workers.

Romanian authorities have refused to let American observers watch the voting, despite an agreement by the government for reciprocity when Romanian observers saw the U. S. presidential election. U. S. State Department Press Officer Lincoln White recently criticized Romania for failing to fulfill its promise.

Romanian leaders replied they were refusing entry to the Americans "because of hostile statements" on the country by President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles, and Radio Free Europe.

King Saud Son Palsy Sufferer

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—Army physicians at Walter Reed hospital have decided that Prince Mashhur—3½ year old favorite son of King Saud of Saudi Arabia—apparently is suffering from cerebral palsy.

The boy is staying in the presidential suite at the hospital while undergoing examination. The child has been partially paralyzed since birth. Doctors in his home country have been unable to diagnose the ailment positively.

Dr. Howard McC. Snyder, President Eisenhower's physician, was asked yesterday about reports that the little Prince is suffering from cerebral palsy. "I think that's right," Snyder told newsmen, adding that a formal report on the boy's condition would be made later.

The White House said Prince Mashhur would leave the hospital Monday to rejoin his father who is an official guest of Eisenhower.

Dutchess Youth Found in Georgia

Atlanta, Feb. 2 (AP)—An 18-year-old New York youth who ran away from home to go "ice skating" in Georgia was located in 15 minutes by officials of Atlanta's naval air station after police failed to find him in a month long search.

The youth, Peter Siebern, is now on the way home with his father, Everit Siebern, 45, of Rte. 367, Red Oak Mill, a suburb of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Gone Since Dec. 28

The air station public information office gave this account of the incident:

When police failed to find Peter after he disappeared Dec. 28, his father talked to some of his son's friends and eventually learned he told them he was "going to Georgia to go ice skating."

A New York sheriff checked and learned there was an ice skating rink at Lakewood Amusement Park in Atlanta. Then the father recalled that two friends of his son lived in the Atlanta area. He remembered their first names were "Joel" and "David" but he did not know their last names. He also recalled they were in the naval reserve.

Checked Navy Log

The father arrived in Atlanta Thursday afternoon, went to the naval air station, checked through the reserve enlistment log, and found the full name of one of his son's friends.

A telephone call confirmed that his son was at the friend's house in suburban Decatur. Father and son were united.

Ulster GOP Hears Probation Officer

Edward Burhans, Ulster county probation officer for the past 13 years, told the Town of Ulster Republican Club at its regular meeting this week that, if possible, it is cheaper to place a child on probation than to commit him to a state institution.

He said his office would rather attempt to reach the child through his family, explaining that first you must reach the parents.

For the five per cent of children who get into trouble there are 95 per cent who are good, he pointed out. He said that in comparison, this was trivial.

He said juvenile delinquency runs about 50-50 as between the city and county. During the past seven-year period there were seven cases in the town of Ulster, he told his audience. There were 18 cases in Ulster county in 1950 compared to 43 in 1956, he said.

Mr. Burhans said that the Ulster County Board of Supervisors had included appropriations this year for 50 per cent of the salaries of a stenographer and an additional probation officer. The state pays the other half.

The following committees were appointed:

Nominating — Edward Elliott, chairman Edward Devine, Frank Phinney, Mrs. Ray Davis and Roy Crosby.

Election — Louis DiDonna, chairman; John Walker, Ralph Bradford and Herbert Gleason.

President Cites Women, Youth Election Factors

New York, Feb. 2 (AP) — President Eisenhower attributes his re-election largely to the support of women and young people.

In a message read yesterday to the annual conference of the Federation of Women's Republican Clubs of New York state, Eisenhower said:

"In all the sincerity that I possess, I think we owe the success of our election to the women of this country and to our young people.

"The Republican party has never had such support from these two groups as in the last election."

The message was read to the 200 delegates by Robert Gray, special assistant to the President.

Roraback Due To Cross Border After Expulsion

Budapest, Feb. 2 (AP) — A young American held in Hungary for nearly three weeks has been ordered expelled. He was expected to reach Austria today with five other young westerners.

The American, Richard Roraback, 26, of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., and Einar Roos, a Norwegian, were arrested by border police Jan. 12 near the Austrian town of Amdau. They were helping Hungarian refugees cross the border.

Helped Refugees

The Budapest radio said a note was sent to the U. S. legation announcing Roraback was ordered out of the country after confessing he had helped the refugees escape. There was no official word on Roos, but Norwegian diplomats said they had "encouraging" news of him and expected him to be expelled also.

The government earlier told the British embassy four young Britons had admitted they were in Hungary without proper credentials. The government said they would be escorted to the border without trial because of their youth and as a gesture of good will.

They are Judith Cripps, 19, a granddaughter of the late Sir Stafford Cripps, British Labor Party leader; Roger Cooper, 20; Christopher Lord, 21, and his brother, Basil, 22. They were arrested Jan 17 at Kecskemet after crossing into Hungary from Yugoslavia to do relief work.
